EUROPE'S DEBT MUST BE PAID

Secretary of Treasury Has a Clearly-Defined Policy.

PRESIDENT HARDING INDICATES ACTION

No Cancellation of Debts Due United States.

Plans for Conferences with Representatives of Foreign Nations Touching Long-Time Notes Now Before Mellon.

Washington, March 5.—Europe's $10,000,000,000 debt to the United States was at the top of the calendar, today, as one of the most urgent problems pressing for adjustment under the new administration. This vital question, together with others of great moment, today, confronted the new secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, when he took over the affairs of office. Secretary Mellon's first day was devoted partly to a study of the debt matter.

Secretary Mellon, in a series of conferences with David F. Houston, the retiring secretary and with other officials, was made conversant with the status of the foreign loans and went at some length into the various phases of negotiations previously begun by foreign governments relative to the funding of the outstanding obligations.

President Harding's inaugural utterance indicating that suggestions for cancellation of the debts will meet with rejection, apparently started the new secretary of the treasury upon a clear-defined policy.

Secretary Mellon's conferences, today, were largely to enable the new treasury head to get a grasp of the problems with which he must soon grapple. It is probable that he will continue in conference for several days, with former Secretary Houston and others who have been actively identified with the loan and other problems.

Plans Submitted.

The plans of several of the foreign governments to enter at once upon negotiations looking to the conversion into long-time obligations of the demand notes now held by this government, were before Secretary Mellon. The British, French and Italian governments have notified the treasury department of their willingness to begin conferences in the very near future.

At the treasury, it was suggested that conferences with the foreign financial envoys probably would not be commenced until the whole question of debt settlement terms has been discussed by President Harding and his cabinet.

In what respect the previous plans of the treasury might be changed was left to conjecture. The probability, it was said, is that discussions would be inaugurated without reference to any tentative understandings which may have been reached previously between representatives of this and other governments.

Former Secretary Houston said, today, he will hold himself in readiness to assist his successor in all matters which may arise relative to the loan and other questions, which are at the forefront demanding consideration. Houston will postpone for several days his departure from Washington.

GIRL JUMPS FROM THE FIFTH FLOOR

Body Found in Courtyard of a New York Hotel.

New York, March 5.—Bonnie Woodward, twenty-six, a chorus girl, committed suicide early today, by jumping from the fifth floor of the Somerset hotel to a courtyard below. She is reported to have a husband in Pittsburgh and relatives in Ironton, Ohio. Despondency is given by her friends as the cause of her suicide.

The police are holding a man describing himself as John F. Berlin, proprietor of the Crystal hotel, of Johnstown, Pennsylvania, as a witness. Berlin and the woman are said to have registered at a hotel under assumed names. Berlin told the police that Miss Woodward jumped from the window before he could reach her side, following "words" between them.

Bank Is Looted.

Ottawa, Kansas, March 5.—The State bank of Rantoul, in a small town near here, was looted and burned to the ground by burglars early today. At least $1,000 in cash was obtained by the bandits.

GERMANS ARE STILL DEFIANT

Prefer French Occupation to Acceping Terms.

BELIEVED FRENCH WILL BE AGGRESSIVE

And Extend Occupation in Any Event.

German Leaders Declare Country Faces Gravest Situation Since War—Stormy Scenes in the Cabinet Sessions.

Berlin, March 5.—The German cabinet is still defying the allies on indemnity, according to the best information obtainable today.

Following a long session of the ministry Friday, when opinions were heard from experts, it was reported today that the opinion was expressed that "it would be more preferable for the French to carry out their threats than for the Germans to sign."

Some members of the cabinet said that they were hopeful that the negotiations would not be broken off entirely.

The cabinet has made it fairly evident that it will back up Foreign Minister Simons to the limit in his reply to Premier Lloyd George. The experts who have been advising the cabinet are understood to have taken the position that Dr. Simons chose the only course open. Most of these experts are said to hold the opinion that, of the two evils, the penalties are preferable to the Paris indemnity decision. Many Germans are convinced that France will extend her occupation of German territory in any event, whether Germany meets the allied indemnity terms or not, "consequently, signing the conditions would only be postponing the inevitable."

The gravest situation since the war is confronting Germany. An incident revealing the temper of the nation, occurred in the Reichstag during debate on President Ebert's message concerning indemnity.

Adolph Hoffman, a Communist, attempted to speak and it was evident that he was about to make an attack upon government policy. The members broke into shouts of:

"Go to France where you belong, you traitor."

The tumult lasted for some time.

Reorganization.

Detroit, March 5.—Complete reorganization of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad is under way, following the election of Henry Ford as president, to succeed Joseph A. Gordon. Mr. Gordon remains as a member of the board of directors. C. J. Kavanaugh, general superintendent and C. P. Burgman, superintendent of motive power, retire

MASKED BANDITS GET MAIL SACKS

Kansas City, March 5—Four masked bandits, today, held up and robbed a mail clerk at Sugar creek, on the outskirts of the city. The bandits obtained two mail sacks.

WORKERS PLAN FOR BIG BATTLE

Will Make Fight Against Wage Reductions.

PACKING-HOUSE EMPLOYES BITTER

Laying Lines for Strike All Over United States If Necssary. Coming Conference.

Chicago, March 5—Packing-house employes throughout the entire United States are laying their lines, today, for a vigorous fight against any attempt the packers may make to reduce wages or lengthen the working day. A strike of employes, union leaders intimated, is not an impossibility. The first move in the fight will be a conference of packing-house employes at Omaha, March 9 and 10. The conference, according to the call sent out for it, "will take such action as will protect the interests of the workers."

The packers are accused in a statement issued by Dennis Lane, secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' & Butcher Workmen of America, with attempting to force "starvation wages" upon employes. It is alleged that several small concerns, subsidiaries of the large packers, already have inaugurated the ten-hour work day.

Lane denies that labor costs are responsible for the cost of meat.

Cancellation of the packers' wartime agreements, which were made with Judge Samuel Alschuler as arbiter, is strongly criticized. The packers gave notice, February 26, that these agreements would be terminated.

Killed Instantly.

East Liverpool, March 5.—While waiting beside the tracks to board a train for his home in Ravenna, C. D. Gilbert, thirty-six, superintendent of the New Waterford public schools, was struck and instantly killed by a fast train on the Fort Wayne division of the Pennsylvania railroad, in Waterford this morning.

Next Week's Weather.

Washington, March 5.—The weather bureau today issued the following forecast for next week:

Ohio Valley and Region of Great Lakes.—The outlook for the coming week is for generally fair weather and temperature near or above normal.

CAPITAL PAYS TRIBUTE TODAY

Thousands Attend Services for Late Champ Clark.

FUNERAL RITES HELD IN CAPITOL BUILDING

Remains Lie in State While Thousands Pass the Casket. Burial in Missouri.

Washington, March 5.—The homage that might have been paid to a president of the United States—which he almost was—was paid, today, to Champ Clark, former speaker of the house of representatives.

The body of the great Missourian lay in state in the well of the house where for more than a quarter of a century he served with distinction and honor. About the simple casket holding the remains, there came during the day Republicans and Democrats alike, and bowed their heads in respect. Not only his congressional colleagues came, but others, also—members of the cabinet, members of the Wilson cabinet, justices of the supreme court and members of the diplomatic corps in Washington.

The homage of the people, of whom Champ Clark was essentially one, was expressed in the dry-eyed grief of thousands who passed through the galleries and corridors of the capitol during the hours that the body lay there. At the funeral services, only a small part of the throng could get inside the building, and it overflowed into the parks and grounds surrounding the capitol.

Eulogies of Champ Clark were spoken by Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and Representative James R. Mann, of Illinois. Eloquent as were their tributes, they did no more than justice to the great American heart which lay before them in the flower-covered casket.

The funeral services were as simple and unostentatious as had been the man and his life. There was a prayer for the dead by the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the house; songs by a quartet, the eulogies; other songs by a quartet, and then the benediction by the Rev. Earl Willey, of Missouri, from Champ Clark's own Missouri.

From midnight, last night, the casket containing the remains stood in the hall of the house. Its attendants were eight capitol policemen, who acted as pallbearers. About 2 p. m. it was to be removed to union station, where it will be placed on a special train that will carry it and the great congressional funeral cortege to Bowling Green, Missouri, where final interment is to be made. At St. Louis, the body will lie in state tomorrow afternoon.

Market Steady.

New York, March 5.—The stock market closed steady today. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

ITALIANS AND THE JUGO-SLAVS FIGHT

London, March 5.—Italian and Jugo-Slav troops are fighting at Adelsberg on the Italian-Jugo-Slav frontier, and the city is in flames, according to a dispatch from Trieste, today.

HENDERSON IS WOUNDED TODAY

Nevada Senator Shot in Office in Washington.

WOUND IN WRIST IS NOT REGARDED SERIOUS

Charles A. Brock, Formerly of Reno, but Living in Washington, Is Assailant.

Washington, March 5.—Senator Charles B. Henderson, of Nevada, was shot and slightly wounded in his office in the capitol, today, by a man who gave his name as Charles August Brook, sixty-five, formerly of Reno, now living in Washington. The shot took effect in the senator's wrist and is not considered serious.

Brock was arrested by the capitol police and rushed to the Sixth precinct police station, where he was placed in a cell.

Brock was arrested by the capitol police and rushed to the Sixth precinct police station, where he was placed in a cell.

Senator Henderson had been his attorney for twenty years and that he had "swindled" him out of $2,000. Clerks in Senator Henderson's offices told the police that the man had been loitering about the office for several days, seeking an interview with the senator.

Are Under Arrest.

Dayton, March 5.—Bertha Guthrie, twenty-eight and Thomas McGowan, thirty-seven, Sidney, and Sylvia Phillips, Mary Neff, Ben. Doyle and Robert Doyle, Springfield, are under arrest here for two alleged automobile thefts. The Sidney woman, police say, was "wiring" a car while her accomplice held a flashlight and the Springfield people are accused of stealing a sedan from Toledo. Miss Phillips claims she bought the automobile in Columbus.

DESPATCHES FROM ADMIRAL BRYAN

Washington, March 5.—Despatches from Admiral Bryan, in command of the American naval squadron at Panama, do not indicate that the admiral has left the canal zone for the coastal regions where there is fighting between Panama and Costa Rica, the navy department stated today.

SENATOR LODGE AGAIN TO LEAD

Senator Curtis To Be Republican Whip in Senate.

SENATOR CUMMINGS PRESIDENT PRO TEM.

Slate Scheduled for Conference This Afternoon.

Harmony Assured at Meeting of Fifty-Nine Senators Composing Republican Majority in the New Federal Senate.

Washington, March 5.—Harmony is expected to prevail at a conference today of the fifty-nine senators composing the increased Republican majority of the new senate.

The conference, scheduled for 3 o'clock this afternoon, will, it is predicted, result in the control of the senate by Republican senators sympathetic with President Harding's policies and purposes being materially strengthened.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, is to be chosen again the Republican leader and chairman of the Republican caucus of the senate. Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, is to be the Republican whip and vice-chairman of the caucus.

Senator Albert Cummings, of Iowa, is "slated" to succeed himself as president pro tem of the senate.

Re-election or reappointment of other Republicans as officers of the Republican organization, or of the senate itself, who were chosen when the Republicans regained control of the senate, two years ago, is anticipated.

These include David S. Barry, sergeant-at-arms and George A. Sanderson, secretary of the senate.

There is some talk of contests over committee chairmanships and memberships, but it is believed Senator Lodge and his associates, who include Senators Penrose and Knox of Pennsylvania, will put through the program agreed upon by them.

Committees.

Any renewal of opposition to Senator Penrose as chairman of the senate finance committee, or to other senators heading other committees, such as signalized the organization of the senate, two years ago, is not regarded as probable or likely to get anywhere.

The Republican committee of committees of the house will also meet, today, for the purpose of reappointing the majority committee members in that body.

The Republican membership in the new house stands at 299, while that of the Democrats has been reduced to 102. It is, therefore, being advocated by some Republican leaders that the committee assignments be distributed on a basis of three Republicans to one Democrat.

Representative James R. Mann, of Illinois, is slated to be reelected chairman of the committee. He is one of several Republican leaders of the house who are in favor of dividing the larger committees, with a membership of twenty-one each, between fifteen Republicans and six Democrats.

REVOLUTION IN RUSSIA GROWS

Gains in Strength in Big Russian Cities.

MANY "RED" TROOPS GO OVER TO REBELS

In Critical Moment in a Fight at Petrograd.

A Call Issued to All "White" Forces in Russia To Join a Movement To Overthrow Bolshevik Government.

London, March 5.—The most dangerous counter-revolutionary movement against the Russian soviet government since its creation, more than three years ago, is under way and is spreading, according to advices received here today.

All railway traffic west of Moscow has been suspended, said a despatch to the Daily Express.

The Russo-Roumanian frontier has been closed, owing to an anti-Bolshevik uprising at Odessa.

Warships have joined the revolt at Petrograd.

General Semonoff, with 25,000 anti-Bolshevik cossacks, is reported advancing through Siberia.

The Moscow wireless message today said that the Georgian peasants who had revolted against the Mensheviks had requested French warships to bombard the districts held by the "Whites."

Private despatches received during the afternoon said that the counter-revolutionary movement was gaining in Russia, despite the vigorous measures of the soviet to combat it.

There are indications that Russia will not be able to make her reported offensive against Poland and Roumania in the spring. It is reported that troops are being constantly withdrawn from the front to maintain order in the interior.

Revolt Spreads.

London, March 5.—The anti-Bolshevik revolution in Russia is reported to be gaining in strength, according to advices received by the Daily Express, from various sources, today.

The Bolshevik diplomatic representatives at Reval and elsewhere in the Baltic states, were said to be deeply distressed at the trend of events in Russia. Boris Litvinoff, head of the Russian delegation at Reval, the chief doorway through which Russia communicates with the outside world, has asked for protection by the Esthonian government and the "Red" flag has been removed from the Russian legation.

The following radiogram was received from Kronstadt, the fortress defending Petrograd on the sea side:

"Power has passed into the hands of a temporary revolutionary committee, headed by General Kozlovsky, to whom both fleet and garrison are loyal. A call has been issued to all the 'Whites' in Russia to join the present movement."

Rebel workmen at Petrograd, assisted by soldiers and sailors and battleships, have captured all of the right bank of the Nevsky, as well as all of the important railway stations. Among the ships that went over to the insurgents was the cruiser, Petropavlosk.

The rebels at Petrograd were nearly defeated at one juncture. At the critical moment, a number of "Red" troops went over to them, however.

The soviet commander called up reserves from Pskov, Luga, Yamburg and other places and is massing them on the outskirts of Petrograd.

A PETITION SENT TO OHIO SENATE

Defiance Citizens Want Action on Canal Bill Deferred.

Defiance, March 5.—Over 600 citizens of Defiance, including nearly all the business men of the city, have petitioned the Ohio senate to defer action on the Emery canal abandonment bill until federal engineers have recommended a route for a proposed barge canal through Ohio.

The Emery bill, of which B. J. Emery, Defiance county, is the sponsor, provides for the abandonment of the Miami and Erie canal, from Middletown to Defiance, which is being advocated as one of the various projected routes for a proposed federalized barge canal for Ohio.

Liberty Bonds.

New York, March 5.—Opening Liberty bonds: 3½s, 91.08; second 4s, 86.70; first 4¼s, 87.12; second 4¼s, 86.92; third 4¼s, 90.14; fourth 4¼s, 87.02; Victory 3¾s and 4¾s, 97.50.

HARBINGER OF ERA OF PEACE

Seen by American Editors in Administration Change.

HARDING AT HELM: NATION IS SAFE

Change More Than Welcome to Anxious Americans, Is Press Comment Over Country.

Editorial comment on President Harding's inaugural address and the change of administration follows:

Cincinnati Enquirer—There has not in a century, been an administration installed in Washington that was called by more nearly the unanimous voice of the country. There has not been before in all the history of the United States an administration with more serious problems to solve, of which more has been demanded than will be demanded of this administration. It will require the support and encouragement of every voter who contributed to the victory of last November and will welcome the cooperation of all others who sought a different outcome of that contest. It stands today the instrument of all the people of this wonderful country.

Let the people then stand behind the administration in whatever it shall do for the national welfare. In this crisis of world reconstruction, after the most destructive war of history, with more than half the world in economic cataclysm and all of it in turmoil, the task for this administration is more serious than has been put before any of its predecessors, not excepting the crisis that followed the assassination of Lincoln. Let every citizen give to it his heartiest support and be in position to share in its successes rather than play the part of an obstructionist, when the best he could expect would be joint responsibility for failures.

New York Tribune—An inaugural address, according to American practice, is rather a preface than a program. So President Harding indicates a spirit more than declares a policy.

His dominant mood is that of a deep and almost mystical reverence for the work of the founders of the republic. He looks at our political and economic life with an inovating eye. He is a conserver, and would stick to the time-tested.

The old America is good enough for him. He attributes our present comparative great national felicity to the rugged strength of a system which has not been shaken by the shocks which elsewhere have toppled many things.

Louisville Times—To Warren G. Harding, assuming today the presidency with the indorsement of more millions of American voters than any man ever before received, The Times extends every good wish and every promise of cooperation in measures looking to the welfare of the nation and the earth.

It would not be true to say that this newspaper has high hopes of his general success, although, it is not partisan enough to find comfort in the possibility of his failure. The staggering burdens which are put upon his shoulders and those of his counsellors never have been surpassed in weight, volume and vexation.

The Times truly hopes that victory attained, a sobering sense of responsibility will bring to Washington that spirit without which the world's most difficult decade may be beginning.

Cleveland Plain Dealer—President Harding strengthens himself with the people by the modesty of his pretensions. He does not propose to revolutionize anything. There is little of the Big I either in his personality or his speech. He merely proposes to try, in all sincerity and earnestness, to do the best he can to justify the confidence of the millions whose votes called him to the high station.

Cleveland News—President Harding's inaugural address should be preserved and studied by all men and women willing to help in making such a America as he pictures, where "the supreme inspiration is the common weal" and every individual contributes the service for which he is best fitted. It is an American creed that deserves and repays study, since it sets forth sys-

Cincinnati Post—The inaugural address [illegible] a man of purpose, [illegible] of the job he is about to tackle and [illegible] to serve to the best of his ability.

Chicago Tribune—Warren G. Harding spoke straight from the shoulder today in his inaugural address. He told America what he proposed to do for America, and he placed America ahead of everything else. That is as it should be. No entangling alliances for the United States.

With a Republican regime in the saddle, Republican from one end of Pennsylvania avenue to the other, America confidently may look forward to an era of readjustment that as Mr. Harding says, will bring us back to normalcy in comparatively short order.

We confidently look forward to a four years that will see America take a bigger forward stride than at any other time in its history. Ohio will have reason to be proud in the future of the administration of Warren G. Harding.

Toledo News-Bee—No matter how they voted last November the people of Ohio will wish that President Harding's administration will be so successful for the common good that it will reflect credit also on his native state, the country at large and President Harding himself.

Those of us who opposed him for election and supported Governor James M. Cox would be unmindful of our public duty if we now did not tender our loyal support to our president.

We are not in sympathy with partisan efforts to discredit President Harding and his cabinet before they have had an opportunity to show their purpose and demonstrate their loyalty and ability as representative servants of the American people.

Toledo Blade—No one, unless it is George Washington, ever has gone into the presidency with a larger stock of good will to his credit than has Warren G. Harding. He has carried an election with record.

Still, large quantities of good will can not serve Mr. Harding as the insurance for a successful administration. He must deal with heaped-up problems with such wisdom that, although many citizens will be hurt by his decisions, the majority will not.

He must convince an impatient nation that, as Rome was not built in a day, neither can all its burdens be lifted and its questions answered in twenty-four hours. He must steer a course in the world that, inconsistently, is both sick of war and humptious to the point of easily making war.

So while Mr. Harding enters the White House to the sound of great cheering cheerfulness can not all be his. His work is cut out for him and that piece of work is as high and as thick as the Rocky mountains. May courage and understanding and all the mother wit of his race be with him. And may God guide his hand.

Baltimore American.—The inaugural address of Mr. Harding means that after devious wanderings the nation at last is back on the beaten path with which every American is familiar through long experience. We definitely are set on the road to safety, and the country will welcome the administration which is leading it back.

Louisville Evening Post.—Warren G. Harding assumed the great office of president of the United States today, and he is a poor American who in his heart refuses to the new president an earnest hope for the latter's success.

The hurly-burly of the late presidential campaign is far behind us. The contest for cabinet appointments is over. Several of those appointments, notably of Mr. Hughes and Mr. Hoover, have pleased the people greatly; others have been less satisfactory, but the country is today almost as a unit in demanding that, as the new president takes his seat, the slate be wiped clean, and the new administration and the new president be judged by what is done and not by what has been predicted will take place.

We must judge our new president not by what others have predicted he will do, but from what he does.

Pittsburg Leader.—Mr. Harding and the Republican party assume direction and responsibility at undoubtedly the most critical period of the nation's life. Every department of affairs is more or less under temporary demoralization, a deadweight legacy from the Democratic administration.

Pittsburg Press—What President Harding and the Republican party [illegible] for the restoration of prosperity and of constitutional government which has been violated and [illegible] in a grave manner in the [illegible] years. It's time [illegible] Republican policies to the main [illegible] be allowed to the [illegible] welfare and the Republican [illegible] has as a rule been [illegible] efficient and capable [illegible] there is a general [illegible] [illegible] improvement of [illegible] government affairs.

Baltimore News—Harding's first act in office was to sketch in brief dashes the picture of America as he would like to see her and as he shall aim to see her become. It is a homey picture like that of a farmer at his plow, who knows that there is no short cut to the harvest crop, to whom the laying of straight, clean furrow and then of another [illegible] ought, etc., [illegible] to [illegible] and the only way to [illegible]

If Europe [illegible] Hardings, for and [illegible] cooperate [illegible] sound and plain [illegible] ing America's [illegible] [illegible] low it, he is [illegible] the world of the [illegible] plan or system [illegible] for the [illegible] unity. He [illegible] part of [illegible] homely doctrine of hard work and individual trustworthiness.

Philadelphia Evening Ledger—The new president presents a general outline of the concepts and purposes of the administration of which he is the chief executive. If expectation has been disappointed in the absence of specifications, there is ample satisfaction in the clearness with which the general course of action is outlined.

The keynote is that of orderly resumption and reconstruction. Between the lines there is emphasis on the recognition of the fact that the president does not vaunt himself as superman or master mind, but regards himself as the chief executive of the government, coordinated with congress as the legislative power with which cooperation is essential to success.

Philadelphia Evening Ledger—The new administration comes into power with the good wishes of the whole nation. Everyone appreciates the gravity of the situation. The responsibilities which the president and his cabinet are assuming are so great as to bring out the best that is in every man of them, and that best is good.

Every one of them has risen to a degree of prominence because of his abilities, and many of them have been distinguished. They all enter office with a conscientious purpose to serve their country. Judgment, even of their political opponents, should be suspended until they give ground for criticism, for both Democrats and Republicans alike are hoping, now that the executive and legislative branches of the government are in harmony, rapid progress may be made toward the settlement of the grave questions growing out of the world war.

Indianapolis Star—President Harding's inaugural address embodied the hopes and aspirations of a chief executive anxious to get the nation back to moving in the even tenor of its way along the course mapped out by the founders of the republic. He would have us avoid international entanglements without shunning any of the responsibility we owe to the remainder of the world.

He would center attention and effort on domestic affairs in order that we might resume "our onward normal way. Reconstruction, readjustment, restoration—all these must follow." He cautions that we must expect no miracles, but must settle down to steady, sane, conservative, individual cooperation with the national administration for the common welfare.

The president's foreign policy, as outlined in his inaugural address does not present any unexpected angles. He is disposed to be conservative, as has been forecasted by his record in public service and from his campaign utterances.

Detroit Times—Mr. Harding was selected for the very absence of the qualities which caused Mr. Wilson to wreck himself in a vain endeavor to realize his private aspirations. The Republican party and Mr. Harding for four years dating from this day, will have everything their own way. The British system of voting an entire government into power solidly could not give a more centralized responsibility.

The only fault that the most captious of Republicans could find is that there is no ready stock of ideas at hand. We are all hoping that none will be needed.

Not only does the Republican party ascend to power unhampered, but there is no vagueness as to the purposes and ideals of Republicanism. No shadow of liberalism falls athwart today's triumph; to Japanese dwellers on the Pacific coast, to anxious students of the grapple between employer and worker, to disturbed watchers of the chinese melee, Republicanism says: "Fret not. We have safe and sane, conservative, normal, constitutional remedies in mind for all these troubles."

Columbus Ohio State Journal—As we read Mr Harding's discussion of our future relationships with other nations he leaves himself free, as he did in his important campaign speeches, to espouse any form of international agreement to prevent war which, in his judgment, may appear to be practicable and hopeful.

He stresses the America-first doctrine, it is true, and the menace of entangling foreign alliances, but he also says, "We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of [illegible] and seek for [illegible]

[illegible] found as "America [illegible] under [illegible] [illegible] of our [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] of Mr Harding [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

ARS INAUGURAL ADDRESS BY WIRELESS

R. Ackerman Is Able To Recognize Voice.

dent W. G. Harding's inauddress was received in Maiday noon, by wireless teley Francis R. Ackerman, who has a station at his home, No. 202 Wallace street.

Mr. Ackerman was in communication with Washington for about an hour and said that he could recognize President Harding's voice. In the evening he was in communication with Norfolk, Virginia, and listened to a lecture on the wiring and operation of the wireless telephone transmitter. From 9:15 until 10 o'clock Mr. Ackerman, Mrs. Charles Ackerman, his mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Kerr and daughter, Cuba, listened to a concert which was given in Norfolk. Some of the selections were "My Old Kentucky Home," "Feather Your Nest" and "Way Down Upon the Suwanee River."

President Wilson and President-Elect Harding on Way to Inauguration

SETTLING DOWN TO REAL WORK

four vacancies on the interstate commerce commission.

Officially, there was no shipping board, today. The board died a natural death at noon, March 4. George Chamberlain, of Oregon, Democrat, who retired yesterday as senator, is slated for appointment to the shipping board.

One of the first diplomatic appointments expected to be announced by the White House, is that of ambassador to Great Britain. Ambassador Davis is soon to sail for home, leaving American representation in the care of a charge d'affaires. President Harding is understood to have a number of men under consideration for this post, not the least of whom is Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university. Gossip also has linked the name of George Harvey with the appointment.

Harding's Cabinet.

Washington, March 5.—President Harding's cabinet, today, officially took office.

Charles Evans Hughes was sworn in as secretary of state, at 9:50, this morning, by Justice Day, of the supreme court. Former Secretary of State Colby, former Under Secretary of State Davis and Henry P. Fletcher, the new under secretary of state, witnessed the ceremony, which was private.

John W. Weeks took the oath of office as secretary of war, at 10 o'clock, the oath being administered by Justice McReynolds, of the supreme court, in the presence of former Secretary Baker.

Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, was sworn into office at 10:20 this morning. The oath was administered by W. B. Acker, an attache if the department of the interior.

George W. Evans, an employe of the department, who was appointed by President Abraham Lincoln, witnessed the ceremony, making the twenty-second secretary of the interior he has seen sworn into office. Employes of the department were present when Secretary Fall took the oath.

"I am sure we will cooperate and work together," Secretary Fall told his assistants.

Secretary of Labor J. J. Davis was sworn in at 11 o'clock, the oath being administered by Samuel Gompers, Jr., chief clerk of the department of labor. The ceremony was witnessed by Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania; Mayor Babcock, of Pittsburgh, and a delegation of Moose, from Philadelphia and Canton. At the same time, E. J. Henning, of San Diego, a lawyer, was sworn in as assistant secretary of labor.

A Nomination.

Washington, March 5.—President Harding will send the nomination of Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, to be under secretary of state, to the senate at the earliest possible moment, it was learned today.

The president had intended sending the nomination today, but the senate adjourned until Monday at 11:40.

FIRST GATHERING IN WHITE HOUSE

President Harding Entertains Family and Friends.

Washington, March 5.—Reaching the White House, shortly before 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, President and Mrs. Harding had luncheon with the immediate members of their families, Dr. George T. Harding, of Marion, the executives father, sitting at his son's table as a guest of honor.

Other guests of the president and Mrs. Harding included Dr. George T. Harding, Jr., Columbus; Mrs. Heber Votaw, the president's sister and Dr. Votaw; Miss Abigail Harding, the president's sister; Mrs. Frank Longshore, Marion, niece of Mrs. Harding, and Dr. C. E. Sawyer, Marion, physician to the president.

It was late in the afternoon before Mr. Harding made his first visit to his offices and issued the order opening the White House grounds to the public. In doing so, he fulfilled a prophesy of Mrs. Harding, who declared on election night last November, that one of the first acts of the next administration would be to "take the policemen away from the White House gates."

Most of Mr. Harding's first evening in the executive offices was spent with his secretary, George B. Christian, Jr., making a preliminary survey of the unfinished business left by the retiring administration. Christian also completed assignment of a temporary office force, retaining most of those now serving in clerical positions and adding several assistants from the Harding headquarters staff at Marion. It also was decided definitely to continue virtually all of the secret service detail of the Wilson administration, including Richard L. Jarvis, as chief.

Mrs. Lottie Conkle, who was operated on at the City hospital, was removed Friday to her home, No. 565 Thompson street.

INDICTMENTS ARE RETURNED

As Result of Probe of Two McGannon Trials.

ALLEGED PERJURERS BEING RUN DOWN

Cleveland Bar Association Is Back of Effort To Bring the Truth.

Cleveland, March 5.—A sweeping investigation into all phases of the two McGannon trials and the trial of John W. Joyce, in connection with the killing of Harold C. Kagy, last May, to determine the part played by perjured testimony in these hearings, is now under way and two additional indictments, charging perjury and subordination of perjury, were returned by the grand jury, yesterday. Those indicted were Joseph Johnson, who testified at the first trial of Judge McGannon in support of his alibi, and Mrs. Della Meinery, who is alleged to have suborned Johnson to swear falsely.

The financial support of the Cleveland Bar association was pledged in an effort to discover the truth in connection with this crime and the resulting trials and bring to justice those guilty of perjury in the various hearings.

Money will be raised by solicitation by a committee of the association and the aid of experts in running down evidence secured to aid Prosecutor E. C. Stanton in establishing the truth.

A number of witnesses who testified in the Joyce hearing and the first trial of Judge McGannon, were not summoned at the second hearing. Included in the list, were witnesses both for the state and defense.

No further effort to establish directly the guilt of the person who shot Kagy can be undertaken, unless an indictment is returned against the mysterious "third" person. Neither of the men previously tried can again be tried for this offense.

Henry Foos, of south of Green Camp, was taken to the City hospital this morning for an operation for appendicitis.

Aunty Would Help.

Bill Bush of L.A.A.C. was showing an elderly lady the virtues of the car he sells. He made many turns and at the proper times extended his arm as a turning signal.

The old lady watched the proceeding for some time. Then she craned her neck and looked at the sky.

"Mister," she said sternly, tapping Bill on the shoulder, "you just tend to your driving. It don't look like rain no how, but if it should, I'll let you know."—Los Angeles Times.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Presbyterian Revival Ends Tonight.

The revival that is being conducted at the First Presbyterian church by Dr. O. A. Newlin will close Sunday night. The interest during the past week has been exceedingly high and the attendance has been correspondingly large. The series of sermons the evangelist preached on "Seven Wonders of Earth, Heaven and Hell" brought many people to the services that have not attended befor eand many were the comments heard at the close of these services.

Friday night the evangelist's theme was "The Unpardonable Sin," and it was a full and attentive house that listened to him as he dealt with that most important subject. He showed that there are many places in the Bible that refer to such a sin. Although he did not cite any one sin as being such a one he inferred that the pardonable sin that the sinner fails to get pardoned may in time become the unpardonable sin. At the close of that service the session of the church met to receive those who desired to enter the membership.

Sunday, the closing day, is one full of many services. At the regular morning preaching hour the evangelist will bring another of his strong messages. At 2:30 the last mass meeting for both men and women will be held with the message especially for men but with the women present as their guests. The last service of the campaign will be at 7 p. m., with the evangelist dealing with the theme, "Death."

Granville Man To Preach.

Dr. James A. Hubbins, of Granville, will occupy the pulpit, Sunday, at Trinity Baptist church.

Evangelish Shellhaas Subject.

Evangelish Shellhaas will speak on the subject, "The Next Universal Empire," Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Seventh-Day Adventist church. The evangelist will answer the following questions: "Who will win when East meets West?" "What Nation will rule the World?" "Who is to be King?"

Evangelistic Meeting.

A series of evangelistic meetings will be held at the Prospect Street M. E. church for three weeks, beginning tomorrow, according to an announcement made by Rev. J. C. Gerlach, the pastor.

Asbury Progressive Class.

The Progressive class, of the Asbury M. E. church, met at the home of Lyle Patten, on Silver street, Thursday evening. Arrangements were made for a box social to be held March 31 at the home of Marion and Esa Culp, of Lee street.

At Epworth Church.

Five-minute talks will be given at the Epworth M. E. church, Sunday morning during the Sunday-school hour. The speakers and the departments they will represent, will be Rev. S. O. Young, primary; Rev. W. E. Ridenour, junior, and Rev. E. L. Ditzler, main school.

Holy communion will be observed at the hour of morning worship, and preparation for the revival to begin Sunday, March 13.

Dr. W. McK. Brackney, district superintendent, will preach at the evening service, giving a special revival message.

Onward Sunday-School Class.

The Onward Sunday-school class, of the Bellefontaine Avenue mission, met Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Turner, of No. 737 Congress street. A social hour was enjoyed.

Baptismal Services.

There will be baptismal services tonight at the Central Christian church. The meetings are in charge of Rev. Roy L. Brown, of Bellefontaine. One addition was made at last night's meeting. Rev. Mr. Brown will speak Sunday on "What is Worth While."

"No Room in the Inn."

"No Room in the Inn" was the subject of the pastor's sermon at the Calvary revival service last night. Rev. A. F. Beery, pastor of the Greenwood Evangelical church, read the scripture lesson, and Rev. S. O. Young offered prayer. During the altar service nine people went foward.

There will be services Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and in the evening at 6 and at 7 o'clock. The 6 o'clock meeting will be a "say-so-meeting" for the particular benefit of the new converts.

Special chorus choir music and also solos by Mr. Reep will be given at every service.

Get-Together Meeting.

A splendid get-together meeting was enjoyed by about 200 members of the Prospect Street M. E. church, Friday evening, when the members of the Women's Foreign Missionary society celebrated the close of a membership drive with a dinner in the basement of the church. It was reported by the field marshal Mrs. J. E. Oliphant that fifty new members had been secured by the society during the campaign.

Following the dinner a program was given opening with a prayer by the pastor, Rev. J. C. Gerlach. The new members were welcomed by Mrs. Iva Hartman and the response was made by John Reidenbaugh. This was followed by a piano duet by Miss Vesta Mae Schweinfurth and Miss Elsie Beghtle. A recitation by Miss Emma Bonendt was followed by a song by the members of the Little Light Bearers and a reading by Mrs. Edith Wanner, who had for her subject "Women and Girls' Jubilee Hall Fulfilling Its Mission."

An exercise by the members of the King's Heralds was greatly enjoyed after which ten members of the Standard Bearers gave an interesting missionary playlet. The program closed with the singing of "America." On account of the evangelistic meeting the Missionary society will meet the last Thursday in this month at the home of Mrs. Frank W. Mayer, of Cherry street.

Wesley Quarterly Conference.

The second quarterly conference of Wesley M. E. church was held, Friday evening, at the church, and was in charge of Dr. W. McK. Brackney, of Delaware, district superintendent. The services were followed by an illustrated lecture on "South America and the Orient," by Dr. William E. Bancroft. Dr. Bancroft has been a mission worker in India for the past fifteen years and presented his subject in a most interesting way. The speaker was the guest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Darling, of Orchard street. Dr. Bancroft expects to return to this city April 4 for a week's meeting.

Delaware District Conference.

The Delaware District conference of the West Ohio conference will be held April 11 and 12, at Wesley M. E. church.

Young People's Alliance.

Miss Ruth Beery was hostess to the members of the Young People's alliance, Friday evening, at her home on east Mark street. Plans were completed for the special services to be held by the young people the week preceding Easter. Games were enjoyed during the evening.

Junior Bible Class Elects.

The following officers were elected at the meeting of the Junior Bible class, of St. Paul's English Lutheran church, held Friday evening at the home of Lowell O'Dowd, of Woodrow avenue. Dale Maynard, president; Paul Frye, vice-president; Lowell O'Dowd, secretary; Robert Lindsay, treasurer. Plans were made for the class to start a building fund for the church. Contests and games were enjoyed. Robert Graham was a guest of the class.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Physical Culture class Friday evening in the hall on south Main street. There were a number of visitors and a social hour followed the work.

The New Down-Stairs Store

Although a large number of people were present at our opening, this morning, we regret that a number of folks could not attend, owing to the rain.

However, we are pleased to state that the same values will always be found in our Down-Stairs Store, and we cordially invite all folks to come in and inspect this New Addition to an Old Business.

AN APOLOGY

Owing to the rush in getting our Down-Stairs Store ready for the opening Saturday, through an oversight in reading proof, our advertisement which appeared in Friday's paper, carried Men's Ties, three for $1.00, whereas it should have been, two for $1.00.

BETTER TAKE SOME ADVICE

See what Wm. Risch, prominent farmer northwest of Marion has to say about his Huber Light Four. Mr. Risch purchased his tractor in September 1916 and it is one of the first Light Fours that we sold.

Marion, O., Feb. 5th, 1921.

Dear Sirs:

I would advise anyone who is going to buy a tractor to buy a Huber. I have used one for over four years and anyone who knows me will tell you that I have used it too. I plow, disk, thresh, run a baler, saw wood and do everything with my tractor that there is to do. The Huber is the best all around tractor you can buy.

I have always got service when I wanted it and the Huber Company will always treat you right. I have seen lots of other tractors used, but have not seen one that I liked better than the Huber. Give me a Huber every time, for I know what they are.

Signed, WM. RISCH.

Here is a letter from Frank Dutton, who lives just across the road from Mr. Risch. He knew what the Huber had done for Mr. Risch and of course purchased a Huber. There are at least a half dozen other Huber Light Fours in the same neigborhood.

Marion, O., Feb. 11th, 1921.

Gentlemen:

I consider the Huber Light Four which I purchased from you last March, by far the best implement on the farm. I have seen a number of other makes of tractors, but I think the Huber is the best of them all. It is easy to operate and has given the best of satisfaction.

Signed, FRANK DUTTON.

You cannot afford to make a mistake in the purchase of a Tractor. Get a Huber and be on the safe side. It costs nothing to get our proposition. Better be safe than sorry.

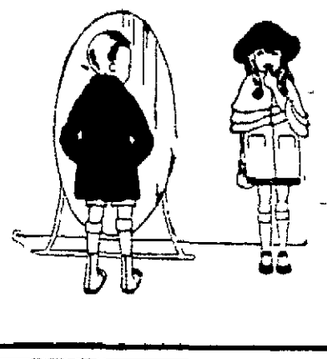
Little Girls Are Wearing Smart Little Ulsters too, This Year

THEY look cunningly boyish and yet they look somewhat like big sister's because they're the same style patch-pockets, belts, raglan sleeves, little capes, etc., and are made of truly "grown-up" fabrics—velours of various kinds, bruellas, etc, in exactly the same shades. There's many styles in our selections right now that will so enhance the beauty of wee femininity to cause her to go a-flutter on Easter morn.



Mothers, too, will like them because of the splendid way in which they're made—the splendid fabrics, careful finish, artistic trimmings and, above all, the way they're priced.

HARDING HIGH FIVE LOSES TO ADA HERE

Men from University Town Win by One Point.

LOCALS PUT UP GAME CONTEST ALL THE WAY

Ada Comes Back in Last Half with Strong Battle Front and Victory Results

Last night at the Y. M. C. A. Building the Harding High five met defeat at the hands of the Ada quintet in a well-played and hard fought battle, twenty-seven to twenty-six. Both teams played good basket-ball throughout the game. The local got the jump on their opponents and so excellent passing and shooting made the offense all that could be desired. The defense during the first half held up in fine style also.

Phillian started the scoring and was soon followed up by Minard and Knachel. Calling "time out," the Ada basketeers got together and tightened up on their defense but the locals outplayed them at every stage of the half, leading at the end of the first period by a score of seventeen to nine.

In Last Half.

In the last half the Ada five came back exceedingly strong and outplayed the locals for the better part of the half managing to close up the lead to four points. The battle then waged more evenly until the last three minutes when the Ada men staged a wonderful comeback, taking a spurt that placed them only one point behind the locals. Battle warped fast and furious in the last minute of play but Ada, still playing on the opinion that a game is not won until the gun is fired dropped in a field goal on a long shot and edged out a victory by one point.

Minard played an excellent game at center. He was high scorer of the contest, while McElroy was the chief cage getter for the visitors.

MISS BESSIE L. LANDON WEDS GEORGE A. KRANER

Ceremony Is Performed at St. Louis, Missouri.

Word was received here Friday evening announcing the marriage of Miss Bessie L. Landon and Mr. George A. Kraner, both of this city. The marriage took place in St. Louis late Thursday afternoon and was followed by a dinner at one of the hotels, where a number of relatives of the bride were entertained.

The marriage will come as a surprise to many of the friends of the contracting parties. They left Marion early Wednesday morning and went to the home of the bride's aunt Mrs. D. F. Henderson of St. Louis where the ceremony was performed by a Presbyterian minister. Both parties are very well known in the city. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Mary C. Landon of West Fairground street, and for some time has conducted the candy booth of her sister Mrs. O. J. Comer at the Comer smoke house. The groom is the head of the Marion Beverage company.

Mr. and Mrs. Kraner left Thursday night for Hot Springs, and after a trip to other points will return home about April 1 and take up their residence for the present at No. 157½ north State street, where they have fitted up a home.

COURT OF APPEALS

Thompson Verdict Affirmed.

Judgment of the common pleas court in the case of Mayan R. Thompson as administratrix of the estate of Benjamin H. Stewart against the Cleary White Construction company, has been affirmed by the court of appeals.

Thompson brought suit against the construction company for $50,000 damages for the death of Benjamin V. Stewart, who was killed while employed by the company on a Big Four bridge, near Lillie in February, 1919. The case was tried before Judge Grant E. Mouser, and May 27, 1920, a jury returned a verdict awarding the plaintiff damages in the sum of $5,500.

William P. Moloney, attorney for the construction company, took the case to the court of appeals on error. The court of appeals found no error, affirmed the judgment of the lower court at the costs of the plaintiff-in-error and remanded the case for execution. Justice, Young & Mouser are attorneys for Thompson.

WON'T PRINT DELINQUENT TAX LIST THIS SPRING

Harry C. Forry Muddles Up Books Is Reason.

No delinquent tax list will be published this spring on account of the unsettled condition of the books in the office of the county treasury.

A statute requires that the delinquent list be certified to the state auditor each year on the second Thursday in February. This year the certification date came on February 10 and on account of the examination of the books of the treasurer's office, due to the confession of irregularities by former Treasurer Harry C Forry, it was necessary to extend the tax collection period to that date.

LIPMAN STORE ON WEST CENTER STREET ROBBED

Getaway Made with Goods Valued at $350.

MAKES THIRD TIME IN THIRTEEN MONTHS

John Bassford, of Columbia Street, Stopped by Footpad Enroute Home.

The clothing and jewelry store of M Lipman, at No 176 west Center street, was burglarized at an early hour this morning, this being the fourth burglary at the store in less than thirteen months. Rings, watches, cases, two or three suits of clothes and two grips, all of the value of $350, were missing when the place was opened and an invoice hurriedly taken.

The burglary was reported to the police and an investigation is being made. Entrance was gained by breaking out a small glass and boards of a rear window leading to a closet in the rear of the place. The door of the closet being locked, it was necessary to kick out the lower panel of the door to open it. Exit was made by breaking a combination lock on the rear door. No burglary insurance was carried by the proprietor, who is now in New York where he has been ill.

Fined for Coal Thefts.

Harry Andrews and William Springer, of Owens, were arrested by officers of the Hocking Valley and arraigned before Mayor T E Andrews, this morning, on charges of stealing about a ton of coal each from the railroad company. The affidavits were filed by W. L. Price, an officer of the company. The men entered pleas of guilty and were fined $10 and costs and ordered to settle with the company for the coal, the total amount assessed against each being $20.20.

John Bassford Held Up.

John Bassford, of No. 122 West Columbia street, reported to the police about 11 30 o'clock Friday night that he was held up near the public library as he was enroute home on south Main street and relieved of his wallet containing $127. Bassford gave a description of the man to the police, stating that he had a revolver and took the wallet from his inside coat pocket.

He Pays Costs

Omar McLaughlin was arrested Friday evening on a warrant charging him with making an assault on his wife, Ella McLaughlin, about February 18. She filed the affidavit against him Friday afternoon. When arraigned before the mayor, McLaughlin pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to thirty days in the workhouse. The fine and sentence were suspended on the payment of the costs and McLaughlin's promise to try and get along with his wife and not abuse her.

John Hicks Released.

John Hicks, colored, against whom Bertha Parks filed an affidavit charging him with criminal assault, was given a hearing in the mayor's court, Friday afternoon. Hicks told conflicting stories and after the testimony the mayor had him held pending his decision on the case. At noon Hicks was released with a warning, the mayor feeling the evidence was not sufficient to warrant him being held to the grand jury.

More Owens Men Fined

William Skytter, Lee Covey and Carl Large, of Owens appeared before Mayor T. E. Andrews this afternoon to answer affidavits filed against them by W. L. Price, an officer of the Hocking Valley, charging them with the theft of coal from the emergency. They paid fines of $10 and costs and for the stolen coal and were released.

Edward Ferrie Held.

Edward Ferrie, giving his last residence as Richmond, Indiana, is being detained at police headquarters while an investigation is being made to determine if he is the rightful owner of a Ford machine in his possession. Ferrie, with his wife and two children, drove here from Richmond. He tried to dispose of the machine, Friday, for $200, and this led to the belief that the machine may have been stolen.

Ferrie stated that his reason for selling was that they were held up out of Columbus and he was robbed of $150, all the money he had. He said they were enroute to Cleveland. The machine has Indiana license No 132,5864. Chief J W. Thomssen telegraphed to the Richmond chief to learn the purchaser of the machine. Ferrie claiming to have purchased it from a man named Moore.

His Confession

By HAROLD SINCLAIRE

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Fanny you've been loving it over me for the past month ever since your engagement to Edward Brooks. But you can't do it any more," said her friend Mildred Thomas, holding out her left hand with a blush. Fanny Upton seized it and dragged her friend into the light. On Mildred's third finger sparkled a diamond in platinum ring.

"Mildred," exclaimed Fanny, kissing her. "Who is it?"

"I mustn't tell you," answered Mildred. "Now don't be angry, dear, because you shall be the very first person to know. It's a secret promise—for certain reasons."

"Oh, I'm sure I don't want to know, Mildred," said Fanny coldly, releasing the hand she held.

"Oh yes you do, Fanny. Now don't be cross. Listen! We're going to have an engagement party on Saturday night, and it will be announced then. And you are to come and be told first! See?"

Fanny was mollified a little. "Well, if you think it's worth making a secret of to please your fiance, all right," she said. "But you know very well he has secrets he hasn't shared with you."

"Fanny," cried Mildred Thomas indignantly.

"Of course he has, goose. Don't you suppose he has been in love dozens of times—rapturously in love, and never told you a word of it?"

"Fanny," said her friend indignantly, "he told me that he has never been in love in his life before. He has never kissed any girl but me."

Mildred remained coldly silent.

"Oh, Mildred, here's a joke," said her versatile friend. "Now are you game for it? Let's each write a letter to our fiances, saying, 'I have found out everything and shall expect you to explain—if you can.' What a joke that would be. Picture the poor men's faces! Will you, Mildred?"

"It seems a shame," murmured Mildred. "But I couldn't bear to think he had deceived me. Are you sure he has, Fanny?"

"My dearest girl, of course he has." On the third day, Friday, the answer came—a hasty, incoherent letter, full of self-accusations and reproaches.

Mildred was looking her prettiest when George Howard arrived at the party.

"I'm going to tell you everything, Mildred," said George humbly.

"It was at Atlantic City. I won't tell you her name. We were almost the only guests at the hotel and at the end of the season. We fell in love with each other; we loved each other madly. We were engaged. Then she went back to town, and I, like a fool, lived in a fool's paradise, anticipating the time when I should meet her again to ask her to fulfill her promise.

"Well, the upshot was that she had imagined me to be a cousin of mine, Garfield Howard, the wealthy manufacturer. When I called at her home she was quite frank about it. She said she had loved me and would have fulfilled her promise, but she had resolved never to marry a poor man."

"The horrid cat!" exclaimed Mildred indignantly, slipping her hand into his, and putting up her face for a kiss.

"And I am forgiven, dearest? whispered George.

"Absolutely. Now listen, for the guests will be here in a few moments. I'm going to announce it and tell them your name. It's all a profound secret, just as I promised you. I want you to meet my friend—"

But she did not finish the sentence, for the maid opened the door and announced Miss Upton and Mr. Edward Brooks. Mildred darted forward and embraced Fanny and shook hands with her fiance.

"I want to present my fiance," she announced triumphantly. "Mr George Howard, Miss Upton—Mr. Howard, Mr. Brooks. Now you have got to like each other as hard as you can, Fanny!"

The last remark was almost an interjection, for Fanny Upton had put forth her hand as gingerly as though it were of porcelain, and George was stretching out his finger tips as though he was afraid of never getting them back again.

"Mr. Howard and I have met before," said Fanny icily.

"You have? You never told me. Where?"

"I think it was at Atlantic City, or thereabouts," said Miss Upton casually.

Here's a Fish Story.

Trout vary greatly within the species, according to the nature of the waters they inhabit the variations being manifested in their color, size, form, and fin-development, says the American Forestry Magazine. As to their weight, Mr Hallock, a famous American fisherman, claims to have known of one that weighed seventeen pounds, while as a rule they do not run over three or four pounds.

THIRTY MINISTERS AND LAYMEN AT CONFERENCE

Marion Presbytery Leaders Discuss Evangelistic Results.

An evangelical conference is being held by the Marion Presbytery in the private dining room of the Busy Bee cafeteria this afternoon for the purpose of receiving reports of the evangelistic meetings in the various churches of the presbytery during the past two weeks.

There are thirty-seven churches in the presbytery, which includes the counties of Delaware, Union, Champaign, Logan Morrow, Marion, Hardin, Crawford and Wyandot. During the past two weeks a simultaneous evangelistic campaign has been conducted in twelve of the churches.

A luncheon was served to about thirty ministers and elders at 1 o'clock this afternoon and the program was opened by Dr. William L Barrett, of Bellefontaine, chairman of the evangelistic committee of the Marion presbytery, who called the conference. Dr. William R. Graham, of Philadelphia, head of the evangelistic committee of the general assembly, later took charge of the meeting. It was at Dr. Graham's request that the meeting was called.

MISS HELEN RAE NASH WEDS STANLEY S. SMITH

Ceremony Performed at First Presbyterian Church Today.

DR. LINIUS L. STROCK IS OFFICIATING CLERGYMAN

Bride Is Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Nash and a War Nurse—Guests.

Miss Helen Rae Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Nash, of Pearl street, was united in marriage to Mr. Stanley Sutherland Smith of Baltimore, at the First Presbyterian church at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon in the presence of relatives and a few friends.

As the bride and groom, attended by Miss Phyllis Marks, of Mansfield, a cousin of the bride, and Mr. Heber H. Smith, of Detroit, a brother of the groom, took their places before the altar, Mrs. Harry Williams played a wedding march. During the ceremony, which was performed by Dr. Linius L. Strock, Mrs. Williams played "Oh, Promise Me."

Becomingly Gowned.

The ushers were Mr. Charles Nash, of Cleveland, a brother of the bride, and Mr. John Zellner, of Galion, a cousin of the bride, who wore a becoming traveling suit of blue with hat to match, and a corsage of pink and white rose buds. Her bridesmaid also wore a blue suit with hat to match and a corsage of pink sweet peas and forget-me-nots.

After the ceremony at the church a luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents for the relatives. The bride's table was centered with a crystal basket with pink tulips and tulle with smilax and pink candles in cut-glass candle holders. Hand-painted bride and groom favors with tulle and tiny wedding bells marked places for each guest.

Guests at Wedding.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Nash, Mrs. Dora Marks, Mrs. Harry Zellner and son, John, and Miss Bee Drake, of Mansfield; Mrs. J. YOUNG LEEDS MAY MARY GREEK PRINCESS

William B. Leeds, Jr., son of Princess Anastasia, of Greece, and the late William B. Leeds, American "Tin Plate King," photographed on his arrival in San Francisco from the Orient, enroute to New York for surgical treatment. Young Leeds was bitten by a fly in Sumatra and it is believed that an arm-bone is affected. William Leeds is one one of the richest young men in the world, having inherited a fortune estimated at $30,000,000. It was reported from Athens recently that young Leeds, who is now twenty-one years old, may marry Princess Olga, of Greece, daughter of Prince Nicholas.

THREE BRIDES OF LESS THAN YEAR SEEK DIVORCE

Mrs. Karl Jacoby, Mrs. J. Edington and Mrs. C. Jackson.

MRS. JOSEPH ARTHUR IS ALSO DIVORCE PLAINTIFF

Married at Cardington November 15, 1915—Reply Filed in Myer Hess Suit.

Gladys Jacoby, through L. E. Myers, Friday afternoon, filed in the common pleas court a suit for divorce from Karl W. Jacoby.

Charges of gross neglect are contained in the petition, which states they were married June 20, 1920. The plaintiff claims the defendant failed to provide a home, food or clothing for her from the date of their marriage, and made no provision to support her. She alleges he took her to the home of her parents and told her he did not wish to live with her.

Divorce, reasonable alimony and restoration of her maiden name, Thrpekmorton, are asked in the petition.

Another Wife Sues

Mabel Edington, through Carhart & Warner, Friday afternoon filed in the Common Pleas court a suit for divorce from John Edington, alleging gross neglect of duty. They were married at Newark, July 11, 1920. The plaintiff charges the defendant never fully provided her with a home, that they lived with her parents, whom he permitted to furnish all their food, and that he left her February 15 with the intention of never living with her again. She also claims that he has since been following her around.

The plaintiff asks for a divpree, that the defendant be enjoined from molesting her in any way and that he be barred from any interest in her property.

Bride Less Than Year, Too.

Margaret A. Jackson, through H. E. Hill, this morning filed in the common pleas court a suit for divorce from Frank C. Jackson, alleging extreme cruelty.

The petition states they were married November 14, 1920, and charges that December 19, 1920, the defendant violently assaulted the plaintiff at their home on Owens street, cursed and swore at her and threatened to do her bodily harm. The plaintiff also charged that the defendant failed to provide her with food and clothing since their marriage, and states she has furnished a good home up to the time of their separation, February 2, 1921. The plaintiff also states that she owns a residence property on Owens street; asks for a divorce; that the defendant be barred from any interest in her property, and that she be restored to her maiden name of Roberts.

Charges of gross neglect and extreme cruelty are preferred against the defendant in a suit for divorce filed in the common pleas court Friday afternoon by Nellie Arthur against Joseph Arthur. The petition was filed through Carhart & Warner.

The petition states they were married at Cardington, November 15, 1915, and have one child, Virginia, one year old. Mrs. Arthur charges the defendant ordered her from their home on Patton street February 19 1921, and that she was compelled to rely on the kindness of friends and relatives for a temporary place to live. She alleges they have had domestic troubles all during their married life and that he struck her in the face September 10, 1920.

The plaintiff further charges that November 1, 1919, the defendant was arrested on a charge of non-support and was ordered by Justice Charles W. Haberman to support his family. She states he refused to comply with this order and served a sentence of twenty-eight days in the county jail.

Divorce, custody of the child, that the defendant be barred from any interest in her property and an injunction to restrain the defendant from interfering with her are asked in the petition.

Reply Is Filed.

The reply of the plaintiff to the answer of the defendant was filed in the common pleas court Friday afternoon through Carhart & Warner in the suit of Myer Hess against Perry C. Boyer. Hee is suing for $250 alleged due him as commission on the sale of real estate.

Denial of the allegation of the answer that there is now pending in the court of Justice G. Farr Earle an action covering the same cause is made by the plaintiff, who states the case in the justice court was dismissed January 30, 1920 without prejudice to the bringing of a new action. Other allegations of the answer are admitted by the plaintiff.

Truck Bids Opened.

Bids were opened by the board of control at the council chamber today for two trucks to be purchased by the city for the service department. The contract is to be let next Saturday at noon.

HER BROTHER'S KEEPER : : : : By Joseph C. Lincoln

Miss Betsy Payne Catches Noah in Some Little Deceptions and Sets About to Find the Woman in the Case With Rather Startling Results

THE hour of [illegible] was high and [illegible] and he had said to himself. Before setting back to resume it, however, Noah Payne took a mental inventory of his effects to be sure that he had forgotten nothing.

The overcoat with the new velvet collar and the velvet cuffs sewed on by Betsy to cover the frayed ends of the sleeves hung on the hook above the head. The new $2 derby hat was in the rack. The canvas extension case containing his best Sunday suit and other articles between his feet. The brown leather strap on the dog's head handle was gripped up by the window. His return ticket was in the strapped wallet, and the wallet was in his inside pocket.

Everything apparently was as it should be, and Mr. Payne with an elaborate air of ease and what he hoped was the nonchalance of the travel worn veteran lighted his five-cent cigar and puffed contentedly.

The cigar was the final burnt offering upon the altar of Mr. Payne's three day vacation, the first vacation he had had since he was a young man.

How Betsy, his sister, "ever come to let him go" was still a much discussed question in East Harniss, for Betsy was mother and grandmother rolled into one to Noah, and the meek little man was "tied to her apron-strings" hard and fast.

Ever since Uncle Hiram died and left Noah the thousand-dollar inheritance, Betsy's fear had been that some creature of the female sex would "git a holt of him" and marry him for his money. Consequently she watched his every move, gave him curtain lectures whenever she thought necessary, and generally kept him in a state of nervous submission.

Therefore, the wonder of the town folk that Betsy should have allowed her brother to take, by himself, a three day excursion to Brockton in order to visit the fair and cattle show. But she had let him go, after giving him a list of rules and regulations a yard long bearing upon his conduct, dress and deportment while away, and now Noah, his vacation ended, was returning, as Meliora Bearse said on a somewhat similar occasion, "to breathe his native air again."

One by one the syllages were passed and left behind. The five cent cigar was smoked to inch length, impaled upon a knife-blade and smoked still shorter, and then reluctantly thrown away.

At Wellington, four stations ahead of time, Noah began to put on his coat and gather his belongings together. He was standing in the aisle ten minutes before the train reached East Harniss.

Betsy was on the station platform waiting for him. "Well!" said the lady, imprinting a vehement smack upon the wanderer's cheek. "So you got home safe and sound, didn't you? I declare, it don't seem's if you'd been gone three year stead of only three days. Did you have a good time? Where's that two headed calf reel or quilt newspaper told? Didn't wet your feet, nor get cold, nor nothin'? Put, have you? Did you put on them new socks I knit for you and put in your bag? I meant much as ever to tell you about 'em, fore you went, but I s'pose forgot it, had so much on my mind."

Noah took [illegible] mental inventory of extension case, umbrella, and the rest before attempting to reply to this rapid fire of questions. Then he gathered up his baggage, took his sister's arm, and began to walk and talk at the same time.

"Yes, Betsy," he said, "I had a spankin old time. Dunno's I ever had such a good time in all my life afore. I went to see that calf reel thing, but 'twas only a dead one stuffed. They had it in a tent, and the bills outside didn't say 'twas stuffed at all, so I paid my dime and went in. Soon's I see it I says to the feller in there, s'I—"

SOLON CHASE passed them. Solon also had been to the fair.

"Hey, Noah!" he hailed. "Come on this train? I didn't see you. Got over your dissipation yit? I say, Betsy, that brother of your'n's a holy terror when he's away from home. Seen goins on I never see. Ought to seen that girl he was treatin' to ice cream day afore yes-day. Won't she a stunner, though! When? You'll have to keep an eye on him, Betsy; that's right!"

"Aw, you shut up, Sole," indignantly exclaimed the slandered Mr. Payne. "What d'you want to tell such stories as that for?"

"Oh, I won't say nothin'," shouted the sinful Mr. Chase. "I'll keep it dark. But wan't she a stunner, though! Ma, my!"

Now, Solon's statement was a purely fictitious one, invented on the spot of the moment with the wicked desire of tormenting the innocent; but Noah knew his sister's suspicious mind, and his face grew crimson.

Unfortunately, they were just passing beneath the station light, and Betsy noticed the change of color.

"All!" snapped the cross-examination [illegible] it was searching.

Mr. Payne was made to go over every inch of the [illegible] since the time he landed at Brockton and he boarded the train for [illegible].

It [illegible] Betsy marked the hesitations [illegible] she wanted to know what [illegible] for.

Pangs of [illegible] consciences will back at [illegible] and Noah's was not [illegible].

He [illegible] over and over again "[illegible] play actin'" [illegible] consideration of a [illegible] dun shoes up the [illegible] Harniss while [illegible] Noah [illegible] back in the [illegible].

"H[illegible] Mrs. Payne [illegible] high [illegible] to [illegible] about it. I [illegible] will and she'll think there's a whole lot more I [illegible] cents did not look like the carefully folded black "cutaway" that should have been there.

He drew it out and held it up, it was a dress-skirt of the kind known locally as "black alpacky."

Mr. Payne's gasp became a groan of sheer horror when he hurriedly snatched up the next article from the pile. It was the waist that belonged with the skirt.

Underneath were many items of apparel, but it needed no more than a glance to assure him that they were never intended to be worn by a middle-aged bachelor.

For a moment he was past conjecture or even thought. "Oh! oh! oh!" he moaned, and rocked to and fro.

After a while he became a bit more sane, but none the less terrified and overcome.

It was plain that somewhere at some time during the last afternoon of his trip he had exchanged traveling bags with a female!

He held his head in his hands and endeavored to remember where it could have happened. He had carefully picked the case at the hotel and had carried it to the station.

At the station—ah, yes! at the station. He remembered now that he had set the bag down on the platform near some other baggage for a moment while he went to get a drink of water. It seemed to him, as he thought of it, that there were two canvas extension cases on the platform when he came back. He had taken the wrong one.

THE sheer hopelessness of the situation was beyond words, and the more he pondered the more hopeless it became. Plainly he could not tell his sister. Plainly he must get rid of the extension case and its contents.

After a time he determined, as a first step to creep downstairs with the thing and hide it in the barn.

He waited and waited. He heard Betsy come upstairs and shut the door of her room. He peeped from his own door until the light showing beneath hers went out. Then he waited for what seemed hours to him and then at last crept, not forgetting the dreaded case in his hand, cautiously along the hall.

Noah's room was [illegible] sister's room. Noah [illegible] Mr. Payne [illegible] Now [illegible] a note [illegible] What [illegible] Noah [illegible] Who [illegible] Mr. Payne [illegible] the corner of the paper [illegible] and [illegible] about [illegible] he would [illegible] the last minute. [illegible] Betsy [illegible] Well [illegible] all right [illegible] Noah [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] Betsy [illegible] Noah [illegible] Betsy [illegible] Noah [illegible] Betsy [illegible] Noah

A STEADY REIN HELD BY OLD JUPE TODAY

As He Rides Astride a Pretty Steady Rainfall.

Jupiter Pluvius came to town, but there was no thunder; he rode steadily, up and down, just to make 'em wonder.

Now, the Star's star weather observing reporter knows that that ain't real poetry, but he had to write somethin' about the weather, and Jupiter Pluvius is always a good subject on a day like this. That's why the sport-writers always jump on Jupe and say unkind things when rain checks are passed out at a ball game.

Yes, Jupiter Pluvius came to town on a load of rolling, bleary-white clouds early today and he rode all around the town and kept riding around and around. When he first rode in he pulled the plugs out of the clouds and let the water pour down, sometimes in streams, sometimes in dashing, clashing, smashing big drops, but he held a pretty steady rein and held the rain to a pretty steady rainfall.

Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, Uncle Sam's official Jupiter Pluvius Judge in Marion county, this afternoon at 1 o'clock, reported the rainfall already had amounted to a little more than an inch.

Universal Special Feature

Harry Carey — IN — "West Is West"

A great story of a cowboy with brains—a natural freelance who uses his head as well as his horse; of how he settles a miners' strike by shirt-sleeve diplomacy, wins a fortune for his friends as well as for himself, and makes a certain young lady realize she is not too good for him.

It is Carey's latest—and we advise you not to miss it.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO INITIATE EIGHTY

American Insurance Union Has a Pleasant Event

MIDST RAPS AND SIGNS OF THE VARIOUS LODGES

Canby Degree Team Confers Rank of Page for Marion Pythian Lodge.

Marion Council No. 671 Knights of Columbus will initiate a class of approximately eight candidates Sunday. All members of the lodge and candidates are to receive communion at St. Mary's Catholic church in the morning and the Elks' lodge rooms have been secured for the conferring of the degrees.

Marion council's degree staff will confer the first degree at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and the second degree will be given by the local team at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The third degree will follow and will be conferred by William Haas, of Delaware, district deputy, and his staff. A banquet in Schwinger's hall in the evening will close the program.

Marion Lodge of Masons.

Marion Lodge, No. 70, Free and Accepted Masons, conferred the fellowcraft degree on a class of candidates Friday evening.

American Insurance Union.

Five candidates were balloted on and an entertainment given in honor of the sixteenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Taylor at the regular meeting of the American Insurance union, Friday night. There was a large attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were escorted to the lodge hall by two members and an entertaining program of music and readings were given. They were presented with a large wedding cake which later was won in a contest by Mrs. John Luellen. Lunch was served and the remainder of the evening devoted to dancing.

Arrangements were made for the initiation of a class of candidates at the next regular meeting, March 18.

Marion Pythian Lodge.

Marion Lodge, No. 472, Knights of Pythias, met Friday night with a large attendance. The degree team of Canby Lodge, No. 51, conferred the rank of page on a class of nine candidates and exemplified the lesson of friendship in a pleasing manner. One application by transfer was received and six applications were balloted on. Arrangements were made to work the rank of esquire next Friday night.

Meeting of Lions

Two applications for membership were received at a largely-attended meeting of the Lions Friday night, and considerable routine business was transacted.

CITY IN BRIEF

New Industrial Prospects.—A report of the industrial committee on negotiations for new industries for Marion is to be made at the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Marion Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

All-City Scout Five.—An all-city basketball team was organized last night at a meeting of the coaches to be held in the Y. M. C. A. tonight. The team is scheduled to play its first game from Fort Ford Friday on the home floor.

Lord Mayor of Cork. Michael O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, passed through the city over the Pennsylvania Friday, en route to his home. His visit here became known to a few who seriously wished to see him walked up and down the platform while the train was standing here.

Story Hour at Library.—A story hour was held at the library this morning at 9 o'clock when Miss Mabel Carper told the following stories to the children: "Cat and the Parrot," "Billy Boy and His Bull," "Why the Sea Is Salt" and "The Golden River." Another story hour will be held in two weeks.

Three-Story Addition.—G. V. Orrison, of Bethesda, was in the city yesterday arranging for the beginning of construction of a three-story addition to the Orrison Cigar company's factory on Blaine avenue. An addition, approximately thirty or forty feet will be constructed and when completed will furnish working room for about sixty more employes. The company now employs sixty-five people in the manufacture of stogies.

Ad Club Dinner.—The members of the Advertising club enjoyed a dinner and round-table discussion on the different phases of advertising at the meeting held Friday evening in the Busy Bee banquet room. A talk on "Good Times Are Coming" was made by George Kleinmaier. A telegram from R. T. Lewis under a Washington date line was read by Charles W. McClain and created no little interest. Later developments were that Mr. Lewis had written the message, which was upon Western Union blanks, previous to his departure for Washington.

Legion Auxiliary Meeting.—Several new members were taken in at the regular meeting of the Women's auxiliary, of the American legion, Friday afternoon in the assembly room at the public library. It was decided to hold regular meetings on the second Friday of each month. Mrs. Emma Knappenberger and Mrs. C. N. Phillips gave very interesting accounts of their work as members of the visiting committee to call on and aid former soldiers who are sick. Miss Donna Harriman, home service secretary of the Red Cross, told of the work of her office.

PRESIDENT HARDING ISSUES AN ORDER

Throws White House Grounds Open to Public.

Washington, March 5. — President Harding last night made his first visit to his offices and issued the order opening the white house grounds to the public. In doing so he fulfilled a prophecy of Mrs. Harding, who declared on election night last November that one of the first acts of the next administration would be to "take the policemen away from the white house gates."

Most of Mr. Harding's first evening in the executive offices was spent with his secretary, George B. Christian, Jr., making a preliminary survey of the unfinished business left by the retiring administration.

Christian also completed assignment of a temporary office force, retaining most of those now serving in clerical positions and adding several assistants from the Harding headquarters staff at Marion. It also was decided definitely to continue virtually all of the secret service detail of the Wilson administration, including Richard L. Jarvis, as chief.

Costa Rica to Appeal to League.

San Salvador, March 5.—Six warships and 12 hydroplanes of the United States Pacific fleet have arrived at Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, according to a dispatch received here. Reports from San Jose declare that Costa Rica will rely upon the council of the league of nations for a solution of the controversy which has brought this country and Panama to the verge of war.

Hooper Goes to White Sox.

Boston, March 5. — Transfer of Harry Hooper, captain and crack outfielder of the Boston Americans, to the Chicago Americans, was announced by Manager Hugh Duffy of the local team. In exchange Boston will receive from the White Sox John Collins and Harry F. Lieboid, outfielder. The transaction is understood to have included no cash consideration.

Three-Cent Fares In Michigan.

Detroit, March 5.—Railroads of Michigan are permitted to charge a passenger fare rate of 3 cents a mile within the state under a federal court ruling announced here. Under the ruling the Michigan public utilities commission is restrained from enforcing the 2½-cent fare law.

NO LANDING OF FORCE PLANNED

American Warships Now in Panama Waters.

MAY GO TO SCENE OF PANAMA'S TROUBLES

State Department Requests the Navy Department To Send Ships to Sixola River.

Washington, March 5.—A number of vessels of the American special service squadron now in Panaman waters will probably be ordered to the mouth of the Sixola river, where Costa Rican troops have crossed into the disputed territory of Panama.

At the navy department it was said that no such orders had been issued as yet, although state department officials said they had requested that several vessels be sent there, but under specific orders to effect no landing.

Cabled advices received by the Panama legation here told of the crossing of the Costa Rican troops and added that the Panaman troops were withdrawing before them upon orders from Panama City. The Panaman government legation officials said, had accepted the offer of the United States of its good offices to achieve a peaceful solution of the difficulty, and it was desired to commit no act that would endanger such a solution. They pointed out also that the territory between the Sixola river and Almirante is covered principally with banana plantations of the United Fruit company, and it was desired to avoid any property damage.

The Costa Rican minister was indisposed and would make no statement.

Guabito, lying a short distance to the northwest of Bocas del Toro, in Panama, was captured by Costa Rican forces. The Panamanians retired toward Bocas del Toro, leaving behind two dead and many wounded. The Costa Ricans have occupied the Almirante railroad and are besieging Ciudad de Almirante.

Speaks Sues War Secretary.

Washington, March 5.—Determined to learn why he was discharged from military service in February, 1918, General John C. Speaks, a new congressman from the Columbus district, filed suit here against the secretary of war to get an explanation of his case. Speaks was honorably discharged from the army after 40 years' service, while he was with the Thirty-seventh division, Ohio troops, at Montgomery, Ala. His discharge followed an investigation by an "efficiency board."

23,000 Measures Introduced.

Washington, March 5.—During the Sixty-sixth congress more than 23,000 bills were introduced and only a few more than 400 passed, according to figures compiled by congressional clerks. In the house 17,393 bills and resolutions were introduced, while the number in the senate was 5,784. Nominations left pending in the senate included 3,500 postmasters, 2,500 naval, 4,000 army and 175 miscellaneous.

Grounded Submarine Floated.

New Bedford, Mass., March 5.—The submarine O-8 was floated by the coast guard cutter Acushnet, assisted by the crew of the Cuttyhunk coast guard station. The submarine grounded on Penikese island Thursday.

He is Professor Emeritus of the Presidency College in Calcutta.

CONGRESSMEN GO INTO RETIREMENT

More Than 100 Give Up Their Official Seats.

Washington, March 5.—One hundred and twenty-nine members of the house and senate retired to private life. Most of them went out in the back-wash from the tidal wave which swept the Republican party into full control of all the functions of the government, but some few, Republicans as well as Democrats, elected not to run again for their seats.

The actual number of house members quitting was 118, but three of these—McKinley of Illinois, Harreld of Oklahoma, Republicans, and Carr of Arkansas, Democrat, go to the other end of the capitol as senators. McKinley's house record was 14 years.

Prominent among the 12 Democrats and two Republican senators retiring were Senators Sherman, Chamberlain, Gronna, Hoke Smith, Thomas and Gore. Other retiring members were Beckham, Gay, Johnson, Kirby, Henderson, Smith of Arizona and Phelan.

"Cherokee Strip" Re-Established.

Washington, March 5.—The greatly increased Republican majority in the new senate compelled a rearrangement of seating. A dozen Republicans were assigned to seats across the aisle in the Democratic section, thereby re-establishing the old "Cherokee Strip."

Japan's Population.

Washington, March 5. — Japan's first national census shows a total population of 77,000,000. Population of the larger cities was as follows: Tokio, 2,173,162; Osaka, 1,252,972; Kobe, 608,527; Kyoto, 591,305; Nagoya, 425,990; Yokohama, 422,942.

HERE AND THERE

Nearly 18,000 more men were employed in factories in the Detroit area on March 1 than at the beginning of February, according to a survey of the labor situation.

Ohio State university ranks sixth among the universities of the country in the number of full-time students in attendance, with 7,156. California is the largest in the United States with 11,071.

West Virginia changed from a Democratic to a Republican administration when Ephraim F. Morgan was sworn in at Charleston as governor to succeed John J. Cornwell.

Successful Woman Trapper.

Trapping predatory animals is scarcely the kind of occupation in which a woman might be expected to distinguish herself, even with the great extension of the range of feminine activities to which we have been accustomed lately. Mrs. Ada Tingley of Idaho, is reported, however, by the Northwestern division of the United States biological survey, to be so successful in this employment that her male rivals are finding it hard to keep up with her records. Her victims are mainly coyotes, bob-cats, wolves, lynxes and mountain lions. At 8 o'clock every morning Mrs. Tingley mounts her cayuse and rides off to her traps, of which she runs six lines, of 20 each. She uses a fish bait prepared by a secret formula. On occasion she can use a .22 caliber rifle with almost perfect accuracy.

CORONER HOLS ENGINEMEN

Michigan Central Crew Blamed for Collision.

VERDICT REACHED AT AN INQUEST

Engineer and Firemen Released Under Bonds Furnished by the Brotherhoods.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 5.—A coroner's jury which investigated the railroad disaster at Porter, Ind., Sunday night, when a Michigan Central train was struck by a New York Central train, ordered William Long, engineer, and George Block, fireman of the Michigan Central train, held on a charge of voluntary manslaughter.

Dr. H. O. Seipel, coroner of Porter county, after several witnesses to the disaster had testified that the signals were against the Michigan Central, swore out affidavits against the enginemen and ordered the men bound over for trial.

They were released on bonds of $5,000 and $3,500, respectively, furnished by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, which sent a special representative from Cleveland prepared to give bonds up to $100,000. They declared the union would assist in the defense of Long and Block.

Neither Long nor Block testified at the inquest, although both attended. They issued a formal statement through their attorney, however, declaring that the signal at the derail switch, 210 feet from the crossing, gave them a clear track, although the distance block, 4,500 feet away, showed a yellow light, which meant that they were to bring their train under control. This was done, they said.

Charges that the railroads were largely to blame for the disaster in maintaining a crossing which they deemed a death trap were made by the enginemen.

Thirty-seven persons were killed in the wreck.

BUCKEYE BRIEFS

Bandits Hold Up Party.

Wapakoneta, O., March 5.—Two masked men held up a party of 10 in the residence of William Weber here, lined the guests up against the wall, relieved them of cash and diamonds amounting to nearly $5,000 and escaped.

Fires Not of Incendiary Origin.

Barnesville, O., March 5.—The four fires here in the last week, which entailed a loss of approximately $1,000,000, were not of incendiary origin, according to a statement by Deputy State Fire Marshal Pelock. He announced that investigations of the fires had established definite origins for each.

Big Fire In Village.

Akron, O., March 5.—Fire starting from an open stove swept the lake front of Sawyerwood, six miles east of here, and caused a property damage estimated at $75,000. Eleven cottages, all occupied; a bathhouse, bowling alley, dance hall, meat market, tailor shop, garage and four cars were destroyed.

Verdict In Murder Trial.

Columbus, March 5.—Guilty of first degree murder without recommendation for mercy was the verdict returned by the jury in the case of John Cooper, tried for the murder of Detective Charles E. Tiller, Oct. 28, in the saloon of Ed Noble. The verdict of the jury was evidently no surprise to Cooper, for he received it with no sign of emotion.

Income Tax Ruling.

Columbus, March 5.—If a corporation contributed heavily to Red Cross, war chest and kindred funds during 1918 and 1919, deducting such contributions when making income tax returns, it did so in error and should at once make a return rectifying the discrepancy of former years, Collector of Internal Revenue Williams pointed out. Individuals may deduct such contributions when filing income tax returns, but corporations are not allowed exemption for amounts contributed, according to the federal income tax law.

FEW ARRESTS ON MURDER CHARGE

Only Eleven Murders in Paris in a Year.

REVIEW OF FRENCH CRIME STATISTICS

Many Foreigners Arrested for Minor Offenses—Two Policemen Killed.

Paris, March 5.—Statistics published by the prefecture of police show that during 1920 39,603 persons were arrested for various offenses. Of this number 4,033 were foreigners, more than 5,000 women and 396 boys and ninety-six girls of less than fifteen years. Eleven arrests were for murder, ninety-two for attempted murder, 1,671 for blows causing serious injury, and 4,181 for theft. In effecting these arrests 257 policemen were injured, thirty-seven very seriously. One policeman was drowned in attempting to rescue a woman who had thrown herself from a bridge into the river and another was killed in attempting to stop a speeding car.

Twenty new theaters were opened in Paris, as well as eighty-six new dancing establishments. The brings the number of theaters and music halls to 500 and the dancing establishments to 689. There are some 3,000 establishments where music is played in Paris, not including restaurants.

During the year some 70,000 applications were for permits by foreigners out of which number but 33,000 come to Paris to work. The others were for the most part, tourists and visitors.

The prefecture of police received during the year 96,475 articles found in the city. In this number 5,935 were found in taxis, 22,000 in the subway and 24,000 in buses and street cars. The figures include 13,000 umbrellas and 2,500 keys. More than 23,000 of these articles were returned to their owners, but a fair stock of women's corsets remain, the prefecture remarking that this is about the only object for which no lost statement is made and which no one cares to retrieve.

The number of automobiles in circulation in Paris has been increased by 42,195, while 28,610 driving permits were granted.

League Dead, Says Johnson.

Washington, March 5.—Declaring that President Harding's inaugural address meant "the end of the league of nations," Senator Johnson of California, who opposed Mr. Harding for the Republican presidential nomination, asserted in a formal statement that he was "delighted with President Harding's reaffirmation of our national policy and with his emphatic words concerning old world entanglements."

Four Held For Toledo Robbery.

New York, March 5.—With four persons under arrest here for examination in connection with the $1,050,000 bond robbery in the Toledo, O., postoffice three weeks ago, officers expected further captures. Forty-one thousand dollars' worth of the bonds have been recovered here. The four prisoners have been arraigned and are held for bail.

New Roumanian Minister To United States

Prince Antoine Bibesco, the new Roumanian Minister to Washington, is very much of a live wire in appearance, wit and action. He already has had considerable diplomatic experience in Paris, Vienna, Brussels and London. The Prince is the son-in-law of ex-Premier Asquith of England.

Wife Of The New Roumanian Ambassador

Princess Elizabeth Bibesco, wife of the new Roumanian Ambassador. She was Elizabeth Asquith, daughter of the Rt. Hon. Herbert H. Asquith, and her marriage in 1919 caused a sensation in London. Her husband, Prince Antoine Bibesco, was formerly charge d'affaires of the Roumanian Legation in London.

NAVY SECOND TO NONE, LEADERS SAY

Congressmen Declare United States Must Be Prepared.

Washington, March 5.—The United States will go along with other great nations in an agreement to end the competitive piling up of naval armaments. It will accept the utmost limitation that can be agreed upon, provided that under any agreement limiting armament the United States shall rank second to none in the naval strength that is left to her.

That decision, reached by the leaders of the naval committees of both house and senate and known to be in accord with the views of President Harding, furnishes the keynote to the incoming administration's naval and foreign policies.

Whatever the decision of President Harding may be with respect to calling an international conference on disarmament or limitation of armaments, congressional leaders believe the position of the United States will be strengthened if, prior to the calling of any such conference, it is made plain that in the absence of a world agreement restricting the size of navies this nation intends to possess, for its own defense, a force second to that of no other country.

War Claims Sent to Senate.

Washington, March 5.—Before stepping out of office, President Wilson transmitted to the senate copies of all state department correspondence with diplomatic agents in England and the British government over claims filed by American citizens for damages arising out of the interferences with the shipping before the United States entered the war with Germany. The letters dated back to 1915, and no attempt was made to compile the totals or give out the names of claimants.

Americans to Be Released.

Indianapolis, March 5.—Release of Sergeant Frank Zimmer of the American forces in Germany and Carl Neuf, an ex-service man, both in jail in Eberbach, Germany, as a sequel to their frustrated attempt to arrest Grover C. Bergdoll, draft evader, is expected soon. It was indicated in a cablegram received at the national headquarters of the American Legion here from Major General Henry T. Allen, commanding the forces on the Rhine.

Railroad Strike Political.

Mexico City, March 5.—Evidence is accumulating that the railroad strike now in progress throughout Mexico was largely political in its inception, and government officials freely acknowledge it is an attempt to embarrass the present administration. Radical elements have seized the occasion for a strenuous campaign of propaganda.

Thousands Killed by Quake.

Shanghai, China, March 5. — Renewed earthquakes in the Kansu and Shensi provinces have killed 250,000 persons, according to advices here. The famine relief committee is making investigations. The above dispatch reporting 250,000 deaths is believed to refer to the total casualties in this and recent earthquakes in the same provinces.

McGraw Reaches Camp.

San Antonio, Tex., March 5.—Manager John J. McGraw of the New York Giants, accompanied by Outfielder George Burns, arrived here and took charge of his team's training.

MOUNTAINS ARE DOING SHIMMY

Peaks Near San Francisco Are on Move.

OBERVATIONS OF SCIENTIFIC MEN

Mountains Moving Back and Forth as Result of Crustal Flow.

Berkeley, Cal., March 5.—Mountains in the vicinity of San Francisco are gradually floating northward on the subterranean sea of the flowage zone of the earth, and are subject to an elastic rebound, causing earthquakes, according to Professor Andrew C. Lawson, of the University of California, in a recent university publication.

The crust of the earth in the Coast range is in a condition of elastic strain due to a slow northerly subcrustal flow, says Lawson. The deep movement tends to carry the crust with it. When the limit is reached the strain is relieved by a sudden rebound. It is this sudden relief of the strain that causes the earthquakes which from time to time afflict the region.

Professor Lawson says that from 1854 to 1882 Mt. Tamalpais moved 5.4 feet, or at the rate of .19 of a foot a year. Between 1882 and 1906 it moved 4.8 feet more, a total of ten feet. In 1906, at the time of the slip on the San Andreas fault, which caused the earthquake, Mt. Tamalpais shrank back suddenly to the south 6.8 feet. This was due to the relief of the strain.

For seventeen years Diablo moved steadily north at the rate of a foot a year, 1900 to 1917, but was too far south to participate in the San Andreas fault rebound. During the ten-year period, 1893 to 1903, Mt. Hamilton was crawling northward at the rate of four feet a year, and after a sudden shift in 1918 it has again been creeping along at 2.2 feet a year. It was not affected by the rebound of 1906, says Professor Lawson:

"Conclusions reached as to the mobility of the coast ranges indicate that there is a most interesting field here for the discovery of laws governing the slow and sudden movements of the earth's crust."

Plenty.

David is four years old and a patient of Sunnyside. One morning the nurse entered the room during "rest hour" and David exclaimed:

"Miss ——, I cleaned up all the crumbs from my crackers and jelly and washed the stand all nice and clean."

"But where did you get the rag to do your cleaning with?"

"Oh! I just took my wash rag and towel."

"And where did you get the water?"

"Oh, I had plenty of water. You see, I got it out of the goldfish bowl."—Indianapolis News.

Didn't Need a Pattern.

Something About Clutches

Adjustment And Lubrication Are The Principal Maintenance Factors

THE THROWOUT (RELEASE) MECHANISM of all clutches require rather frequent special greasing or oiling unless this mechanism is enclosed in an oil bath, and in some designs, the clutch shaft bearing must be greased periodically. In general, a clutch should not be slipped unnecessarily, for this wears the frictional surfaces unduly. It should either be fully engaged or fully disengaged at all times. The clutch should not be held released during long stops, as this is hard on the throw out bearing. The frictional material of all clutches wears thinner after long usage and this may prevent the spring or springs from forcing the plates or other parts together sufficiently to hold. It may also alter the position of the pedal, so that it cannot be moved into its fully released and fully engaged positions. In a general way, adjustment of the clutch itself as to spring pressure, etc., is first performed and then the pedal is adjusted to its correct position. The instruction book of the individual car explains how this is done. In all clutches, changes occur, after long usage, in the frictional character of the materials used to effect engagement and treatment of these may be required. This alteration is usually indicated by the development either of a tendency to slip or a tendency to engage violently—to grab. In the case of the asbestos fabric linings of dry disc clutches, an occasional thorough washing off of collected dirt and "glaze" with a kerosene lubricating oil mixture, usually restores the desired frictional qualities. With leather linings of cone clutches, increasing the pliability of the material by applying neatsfoot oil, ordinarily brings back its original qualities unless mineral oil or grease has gotten at the leather in which case, fullers earth should be used to absorb it. The metal plates of oil immersed multiple-disc clutches can generally be stopped from slipping by cleaning them thoroughly with kerosene and using an oil mixture that is not too thick and viscous, while the grabbing tendency can usually be controlled by cleaning and using an oil of sufficiently heavy body. Clutch adjustment though very seldom required is of great importance. A clutch that slips should not be tolerated as it will wear out very soon and require expensive replacement. On the other hand, one that engages violently injures tires and strains transmission parts so seriously, that it should not be put up with, while one that fails to disengage fully (drags) makes gear changing so difficult and disagreeable as to call for its immediate adjustment.

REPAIRING A SCORED CRANKSHAFT

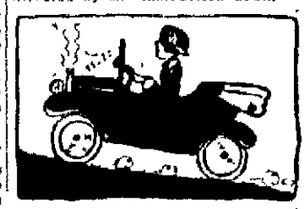
E. D. H. asks: Can you tell me the best method of treating a crankshaft that has been scored by a broken bearing? I have ground it down somewhat with emery paper, but several deep grooves remain. Is it necessary to remove these entirely?

Answer: If the scoring is quite deep, it will probably be best to have the shaft centered in a lathe and turned down enough to give a perfect surface, but if the score is only shallow, it can readily be ground out in a rotary grinder. You will hardly be able to obtain good results with emery cloth, and are likely to leave the part out of true. The score should be entirely removed and the part brought back to perfect condition before a new bearing is fitted. A first-class machine shop can do this work and also rebabbit the bearing and fit it correctly.

LOOSE IGNITION CONNECTIONS?

H. R. S. writes: My Ford car was overhauled about three weeks ago and, while it runs pretty well on level roads, when it takes a hill, the water boils, it jerks, spits back into the carburetor and it seems to me as if the nuts would jump from the coil-box. What is the matter?

Answer: We do not know what parts were overhauled and so cannot be sure where your trouble is. Quite likely the looseness of the coil-box nuts makes the spark uncertain, causing the engine to miss fire and run jerkily. This in itself would cause overheating, which may be aggravated by the timer being set a little too late or by piston-rings and bearings still being overtight—supposing they were changed in the overhauling process. If the valves do not seat tightly or the ignition is set too late, the engine might fire back into the carburetor. We suggest that you tighten the ignition wire connections and see that none of the valves fail to seat when they should. You better make sure that the carburetor and gasoline piping are clean and that the timer is set as directed by the instruction book.



Question of general interest to motorists will be answered in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address Albert L. Clough, care of our office.

Trouble Solver For Automobile

[If you have any troubles or wish any information about your automobile write to Frederick C. Guerrlich, M. E., Stamford, Connecticut.]

Q. Which takes the most fuel, a two-cycle or a four-cycle engine? Some of the makers of the two-cycle engines claim that their engines are the best as there are no valves to get out of order, but they have no piston rings on the pistons and it looks as though they would lose compression. C. A. R.

A. Of two equally well designed engines the four-cycle will generally show the greater efficiency. The two-cycle engine has, however, a number of advantages over the four-cycle, especially in a single-cylinder engine and one which does not require a high speed. It is likely to be freer from vibration, and has fewer parts. Except, possibly in very small engines, the pistons should be equipped with piston rings.

Q. How can I start my Ford on these cold mornings? I tried jacking up a rear wheel, pouring hot water over the manifold and carburetor, turning on the gas so as to make the mixture richer. Did everything in fact. Still I have to crank for fifteen minutes before I can start.

A. F. O.

A. In cold weather it is especially necessary to see that the three things which are essential to the proper running of the engine: namely, compression, ignition and mixture, are the best. Clean your ignition system and be sure that both the sparks plug and vibrator points are properly set. See that the spark does not come too late. You can do little more to the mixture than you have, unless it be the draining of the gasoline tank so as to get rid of stale or watery gasoline. Clean the gasoline line also. It may prove worth while to prime with raw gasoline through the spark-plug opening.

Q. I have a Ford which I can not get to spark. I have renewed the timer, have new wires and spark plugs, still it will not start. I have had the post on the generator off and the wire cleaned. Heated the engine with hot water, primed the plugs with gasoline. Still it will not start. I noticed when the plug was out, a bushing that fits on the casing was loose and drops down on the generator. Would that cause the trouble? T. J. D.

A. If the loose bushing causes a short-circuit or a poor contact, then it undoubtedly is to blame. Get someone to crank for you and listen to the vibrator. If they do not buzz, then the bushing is probably to blame. Or try a battery, connecting one terminal to the ground and the other to its post on the back of the coil box. If you now get a spark you can be sure the bushing is at fault. Look to the opening of the vibrator and plug points and have them correct. Also, when starting have the mixture quite rich.

Q. I have a Delco system. Recently my engine stopped on the road and I could get no spark. I filed the platinum points of the distributor and then got a spark, but found that the timer had slipped. I reset it and the engine worked all right. This has happened twice recently. What is the cause?

A. The slipping is due to the condition of the clamping screw or nut inside of the timer cam and its shaft. Putting two or three fine prick punches on the shaft, or perhaps a little shellac will help to prevent the slipping. If the clamping screw works free, putting a little shellac on the threads will help, as will putting a fine punch mark on the edge of the screw.

If the trouble is mostly because of the platinum points pitting, it may be that the condenser has become disconnected or broken down. The purpose of the condenser is to prevent the sparking of the interrupter points. I would have an expert add repair this.

Your trouble may be due to the screw, or adjustable member of the interrupter points, working either forward or backward. The lock nut on this screw, if properly set up should, however, prevent this.

Q. I recently spilled some of the solution out of my battery and put in some distilled water. The battery worked the self-starter, but it never got full charged. Can I put some fresh acid in the battery, and what acid should I use? Y. P. T.

A. You must never put undiluted acid into a storage battery. You can, however, put in a solution of about one part chemically pure sulphuric acid to four of water. I would fill the battery, without pouring out any of the present solution, with this solution once a week for the next three or four weeks, using the acid solution in place of the distilled water. Do not attempt to mix the acid and water yourself.

The above is really a make shift way of remedying the mistake you made in not immediately taking the battery to a battery expert and having it filled with the proper solution.

To do the right thing now, you will have to take the battery to the battery man and have him pour out the present electrolyte—solution—and put in a solution of entirely new solution, after which the battery must be given a slow charge. To pour out the solution, he will have to take out the plates, as if the battery is simply turned upside down, the sediment, which may be at the bottom of it, will collect on the plates and soon burn holes into them.

LEGAL NOTICE.

JUBILEE'S PARDNER

by Judd Mortimer Lewis

He needn't worry, Jubilee ain't going to catch no cat.

[illegible] and ain't want to have a kid have any fun. We went around and told the Last Days of Tripes mother that we would take the baby out for a walk as she wanted but she seen us over the back fence. I bet we never do get a chance to toughen that kid. Jubilee chased a cat up a tree in a yard and the man come running out and said if Jubilee had caught he would of shot him. I said lots of people had said that. He needn't worry. Jubilee ain't going to catch no cat. He caught one once.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE DRUM STICK.

[illegible] a stamp [illegible] one [illegible] Nurse Jane, who was [illegible] of Uncle Wiggily's [illegible] Sculd Pig [illegible] Cabbage Leaf Garden [illegible] he was reading.

"I wonder what [illegible]" said Nurse Jane.

Very soon Mr. Whitewobble [illegible] "Oh, lady, I mean to ask you [illegible] to the movies," said Uncle Wiggily.

"[illegible]" said Nurse Jane. "Whenever I always [illegible] Wiggily [illegible]"

"We're trying to raise money to [illegible] for our [illegible] stamps is not," said Floppy.

"Of course I'll buy a ticket," exclaimed Uncle Wiggily with a jolly laugh. "When is the show?"

"Some time in our back yard," answered Curly.

Then when Uncle Wiggily had taken two tickets the piggie boys hopped along and went to Grandpa Goosey Gander's house and [illegible] the [illegible] of Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear, and to all their friends.

The next afternoon Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane started out to visit the animal children's circus. Sure enough, in the back yard of the piggie boys' pen was built a snow house. And on a sign over the door was printed

GRAND CIRCUS SHOW

"Oh, here comes Uncle Wiggily!" cried Susy Littletail the rabbit girl. "I'm so glad you came! Sammie is going to be a clown in our circus."

"And I'm going to jump down off a snow bank and turn a somersault!" barked Jackie Bow Wow, one of the puppy dog boys.

"And I'm going to swing by my hind legs from a trapeze" said Jackie Kinkytail the monkey boy, "and jump over an elephant's back."

"Where's the elephant?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Oh, Neddie Stubtail, the boy bear, makes believe he's the elephant" explained Sammie, coming out in his fur clown suit.

"I think this is going to be a fine circus," said Uncle Wiggily, and he and Nurse Jane and some of the other older animal folk were going in the snow house to sit down and wait for the show to begin, when, all at once Tommie Kat the kitten boy, came outside and said:

"We can't have the show!"

"Why not?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Because I've lost the drumstick that I must use to beat the big bass drum," answered Tommie. "I got my mother's biggest dishpan for the bass drum," he went on, "and I had a dandy big stick with a knob on end that made the drum go 'boom' boom'. But I lost my drumstick!"

"That's bad," said Sammie. "It

"We can't have the show!"

who was to be the ringmaster of the circus band.

"Here," said the bunny gentleman. He went over to a sumach bush, on which some of the dried red plumes were still growing, though it was winter. The sumach's clusters of dried red berries were just the shape and size for a drumstick.

"I'll get two of these and bang the dishpan bass drum on both sides just fine!" cried Tommie. "Now the circus can start!"

"Hurray!" shouted the animal children. Then Uncle Wiggily, Nurse Jane and the rest of the audience went in the snow house, and the performance began. The animal boys and girls did their tricks, but, best of all was the booming of the bass drum beaten by the sumach sticks Uncle Wiggily thought of. And when the bad old Fox tried to get in the show Tommie just whacked the bad chap on the nose with a sumach drumstick and sent him flying out again.

FOSTER'S WEATHER

[illegible]en, March 5.—During [illegible]art of the week centering [illegible] a general warm wave [illegible]pressions, will cover all [illegible]rn Rockies, Pacific slope, [illegible]rs sections. It will affect [illegible]e continent as it moves [illegible]rd, will pass east of me[illegible] by March 20, then move [illegible]ward to Newfoundland by March 22 or 23. The warm wave is always considered the first indications of the storm and, in weatherology, is called the first feature, the first third, of the storm. It requires great force to heat up that miserable, cold Alaskan country and build up a warm wave there, the purpose of which seems to be to thaw out our southern, warmer but frozen country. These statements read like paradoxes, but they are true. Storm wave will follow and cool wave follow it. These are the second and third distinct features, and it requires all of them to make what, in crop weather language, I call the storm. It will be a severe storm and cause much bad weather along the storm paths that have been usual for the past four months, and with about the average precipitation and location of those months.

The change in precipitation will not come till near the middle of April. It is safe for you to expect not much change in crop weather for the next six weeks. But March will be an unusually stormy month; much like the last week in January and the weeks centering on February 7 and 15. More bad, stormy weather is expected in March than in any other month of the winter in those sections where the bad storms of the past four months have been striking. I do not mean bad crop weather, but disagreeable weather for man and the lower animals. I expect the general average of crop weather for March to be good. Most severe storms and most precipitation of the month are expected during the week centering on March 9. Better put your affairs in good condition for that week of bad weather if you are contemplating outdoors' affairs, sea or ocean voyages, and wish to avoid bad weather, I advise you not to take up such matters during the two weeks centering on March 9, April 22, May 10, June 1.

TORPID LIVER

Success Lumberman Talks of His Successful Use of Black-Draught for Colds and Headaches.

Brownsville, Tenn.—"I have used Black-Draught for years, in fact ever since it was first put on the market. I consider it the best medicine that can be had," says Mr. L. A. [illegible], a well-known lumberman of this place. "When I was single, I used it for Colds especially if I felt a cough coming on. I always found it relieved me promptly. After I married, I have used Black-Draught and never have had any trouble with liver or digestive disorders. Especially with children I recommend Black-Draught. In my family occupying a position of assistance that I have held for years in helping to relieve or prevent sickness that may come from a disordered liver, Black-Draught is doing its duty. For Colds, Headache, constipation, indigestion, etc. I consider it the best medicine on the market. In case of a serious sickness that has long and successfully resisted the use of Black-Draught, I have used it in thousands of cases and have never been disappointed in its results, by stimulating the liver to perform its important work. Every once in a while the wires are telling us that Lloyd George is facing a crisis. That's nothing to brag about, everybody's doing it.

The Newark American Tribune man wants us to turn half our salary over to charity and the other half to the church. But that would hardly be the square thing to our creditors.

"King George is said to be a seeker after hair restoratives," says an exchange. What! Have they prohibition over in Great Britain also?

A Connecticut citizen, writing to the New York Sun, recommends snuff for hay fever. Some people will be inclined to classify this as another remedy worse than the disease.

Ever since noting that England has but one auto to every 120 of her population we have been wondering how the English can possibly get enough exercise to keep them in condition.

There are all kinds of people in this old world of ours, but the big end of them is made up of those who know better how to run other people's businesses than the people on the job.

A California woman is said to have confessed to the murder of her husband because he was "not the kind of a man I thought he was." Prospective husbands should exercise care to learn in advance what kind of men their brides think them to be.

The plan of creating school zones for the regulation of automobile drivers would be a fine one could it be pressed home on automobilists that the zones are not set apart solely for the purpose of increasing their speed.

The other day we said: "The reformers are seeking legislation against the use of tobacco, but what the smokers want is legislation compelling its use in cigars, cigarets and smoking mixtures," and the Ohio State Journal runs it now under the heading, "Legustibus Non Disputandum." We wish some miscreant hadn't run off with our invaluable ninety-eight-cent dictionary so we might learn whether we have been given a knock or a boost.

STAGGERING UNDER COST OF WAR.

The nations of Europe have practically pauperized themselves by war, and a number of them would be adjudged bankrupt if they were pressed to pay only the interest on their war debts. America is sure that Europe should get out of the war business, but what about the United States?

According to statistics compiled by Dr. E. G. Ross, chief physicist of the United States bureau of standards, 92.8 per cent of all the money that will be spent by the United States government during the coming fiscal year will be for war and for preparedness, and the remainder is spent for the public welfare, for public works and for general administration.

Of the money which will be spent by the government of the United States, 92 per cent is a charge from which in the same condition as a number of nations of Europe. From now this government is hard put to decide which of these two ways will help to overcome the deficit which will face it next year.

Interest on the debts of the World war alone will cost the United States government $1,000,000,000 a year for some years, and $275,000,000 will be collected each year for a time only. The government must pay many millions of dollars to pay for disabled veterans of the world war, just as it is paying $164,000,000 annually to veterans of other wars and their widows.

If the European nations keep up their armaments, they will founder on the rocks of national bankruptcy. Germany and France even now have a hard struggle to keep afloat financially, and Great Britain is only a little better off despite her greater resources.

Sketches from Life . . . By Temple

"C'n I Get Warm, Boss?"

A TEMPORARY BREASTWORK.

The proposal to re-enact the Payne-Aldrich tariff law as a stop-gap measure, pending the thorough revision of our tariff laws, is one which will meet with the approval of the majority throughout the country, according to the New York Herald. It says:

"The Payne-Aldrich tariff, of course, is a dozen years old, and this is a different country and a different world from what we knew when that legislation was enacted in 1909. But it embraces all the fundamental principles of the American tariff system, and with necessary readjustments to make it workable and effective it may serve to navigate the country under a jury rig, so to speak, until congress can provide a soundly reasoned and carefully worked out measure.

A point which the Herald neglects to mention, and which should not be overlooked, is that the Payne-Aldrich tariff law carried a proviso, the necessity of which was never so pressing as it is today, and that is the maximum and minimum clause aimed to discourage discrimination in foreign countries against American exports. Throughout the hearings which have been held before the ways and means committee during the past three months one could not but be impressed by the frequent allusions to discriminations which are being practised abroad, particularly in Europe, against American goods. In Great Britain, for example, not only has direct discrimination been charged, but indirect as well through the recently adopted British system of imperial preferences on goods imported by the parent state from her several dominions. This system has served to diminish the sales of American goods to Great Britain, and since it is largely an English domestic question, there is little we can accomplish by way of protest.

We can, however, meet it in our own way and with our own laws, and pending the enactment of those laws, the tariff act of 1909 is admirably suited to handle the situation. Among other things the maximum and minimum clause provided that:

"The proclamation issued by the president under the authority hereby conferred and the application of the minimum—that is, the general—tariff thereupon, may, in accordance with the facts as found by the president, extend to the whole of any foreign country, or may be confined to or exclude from its effect any dependency, colony, or other political subdivision having authority to adopt and enforce tariff legislation, or to impose restrictions or regulations, or to grant concessions upon the exportation of articles which are, or may be, imported into the United States," and the president is directed to keep congress informed in the matter.

With abnormal conditions such as they are and the exchange situation the worst in history; wage scales bearing little relation to economic principles, and the stock markets barely convalescing from shell-shock, the task of framing a scientific and practical tariff law is well-nigh insuperable just at this time. A vast amount of additional data must be secured and digested and a great deal of patience must be exercised as conditions slowly right themselves. The tariff act of 1909, if revitalized, would supply American industry and agriculture with a fairly good breastwork behind which to operate while the permanent trench is in process of construction.

It may be nothing more than accident, but it's odd how often the skinny girls wear clothes up and down and the fat ones around and around.

IMPORTS INCREASE, EXPORTS DECREASE.

Our imports during 1920 increased three-fifths [illegible] exports decreased only [illegible] That fact is seen by economists as the [illegible] while [illegible] this country [illegible] under [illegible] this country become a thing of the past.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By James Ball Naylor]

MENTAL DEPRESSION.

"Ah, there are moments for us here, when seeing
Life's inequalities, and woe, and care,
The burdens laid upon our mortal being
Seem heavier than the human heart can bear."

All of us have our moments of mental depression.

All of us know times when life seems not worth the living.

All of us, at times, feel like saying,

Fortune's fickle, Fate's unkind,
Truth is false, and Justice blind;
Love's a joke, and Life's a jest—
But everything is for the best.
Like blazes!

Yes, we all have our periods of mental depression.

And these periods are not due to our disappointments or sorrows, usually; they are not caused by our hard lots. They do not recur because of "life's inequalities, and woe, and care." They do not persist on account of "the burdens laid upon our mortal being." Much more frequently they are born of our physical conditions. They are common to the fortunate and the unfortunate; they are known in the palace and the hovel; they are experienced by the rich and the poor, the young and the old, the famed and the unfamed. Indigestion breeds discontent; a torpid liver gives the world a saffron tint; auto-intoxication opens the door of gloom.

All normal human beings know their times of mental depression.

Maybe these spells of mental depression are good for us; maybe they are necessary to our welfare. One can not appreciate the sunlight who has never been in the shadow; one can not know true happiness who has never known real sorrow; one can not truly enjoy content who has never experienced discontent; one can not fully value pleasure who has never borne pain.

But don't despair—just because you are depressed.

Rather, sing blithely:

I've had my share of carking care,
Of fickle Fortune's frowns,
I've braved and borne the cold world's scorn—
And had my ups and downs;
But I can still a ditty trill,
Or sing a roundelay;
For though I hold nor lands nor gold—
My skies are seldom gray!

I would not give a fig to live
Divorced from fret and moil;
The bread I eat is rendered sweet
Because of daily toil.
And so I still a ditty trill
And sing a roundelay;
For though I hold nor lands nor gold—
My skies are seldom gray!

WE SAY GOOD-BY.

[By Dr. O. A. Newlin.]

We say "Good-by" 'neath smiling sky
At this front porch and lawn,
With solemn tread, uncovered head,
And faces strangely drawn,
As when old friends must part;
The words you spoke to home-town folk
Were most sincere, indeed,
Our hearts grew warm, a lump took form
To say "Good-by, Godspeed"
In grip of hand and heart

We're proud today, have tried to say
By token and by tears,
Our love for you is ever true,
Shall richer grow with years
E'en though you must depart;
We claim you still, we always will,
But loan you for the weal
Of this domain. Our loss is gain,
Yet we deep sorrow feel
To say "Good-by" in hear[illegible]

You are not ours, so lead the powers
To peace, and strip war's mask
[illegible] command if our work hand
[illegible] in the task
To which you now [illegible]
[illegible] our inner strength from above
We trust may be your stay
Our prayers ascend for you, our friend,
We say "Good-by" today
In grip of hand and heart

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Miss Rita S. Teal is a leading real estate dealer of Baltimore.

A New Hampshire woman has among her prized possessions a string of sleigh-bells which were brought to America in 1736 by John Cogswell, the first settler of Essex, Massachusetts.

In more than a century four women occupied the throne of Russia, and one of them—the Empress Elizabeth, the able daughter of Peter the Great—proved herself far in advance of other rulers of her time by conferring on women full civil rights.

The Spaniards have a saying that a wife should resemble three things and yet differ from these same things. First, she should be like a snail, which always guards its house, but she should not carry the house with her whenever she goes out. Second, she should be like an echo, which speaks only after the other is finished, but she should not always have the last word. And yet, she should be like the town clock, which always sounds the hours with regularity, but she should not sound so loud that the whole town shall hear it.

ODD AND INTERESTING

Meat taints quickly if exposed to moonlight.

Originally, March was the first month of the year.

Snow, either fallen or falling, is a great obstructor of sound.

Europe and North America use nearly four-fifths of all the coffee the world produces.

One of the coldest mixtures known is three pounds of muriate of lime mixed with one pound of snow.

In the reign of Queen Elizabeth a tax had to be paid on every beard of over a fortnight's growth.

"Eternal snow," on mountain-tops never melts because the rarefied air abstracts all heat from surrounding objects.

March seems peculiarly fatal to poets. Longfellow, Southey, and a number of others of prominence all dying in that month.

The Masonic fraternity always uses the northeast corner of the foundation of a building in which to place the cornerstone.

The warmth found in a covering of wool or snow is due to the same reason—the holding of air in the interstices of both.

The biggest yearly rainfall is in Assam. In 1861 the world's record was broken there by a fall of 805 inches, or more than sixty-seven feet of rain.

Sally Lunn is so called because a pastry-cook of that name used to sell the tea-bread in the streets of Bath, England, at the end of the eighteenth century.

Hair dye being at one time considered detrimental to long life, some of the insurance companies in Europe are said to have refused to insure persons who used it.

In many of the large cities of China there are establishments where beggars voluntarily submit to having their eyes taken out and their limbs broken, in order to excite public commisseration.

It is only within the last hundred years that the tomato has come into general use as food. Some people up to fifty years ago refused to eat tomatoes, believing that they caused cancer, which, however, has long disproved.

Widely known as an emblem of good-luck, the Swastika is of very ancient origin. It was in use in Japan in ancient times, and is very common there and in Korea. In China it has been used from immemorial to mark sacred or specially honored works of art, buildings, pictures and robes.

MILITARY RECORDS OF REVOLUTIONARY HEROES

Seven of Whom Are Buried in Marion County.

VERIFIED BY DAUGHTERS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION

Ballentine, Gray, Gillet, Hyde, Swinnerton, Van Fleet and Wyatt Are Names.

A committee of the Captain William Hendricks chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, has been working the past year on a record of all the revolutionary war soldiers buried in Marion county.

The committee, composed of Mrs. J. P. Robinson, Mrs. F. C. Hughs, Mrs. S. L. Leeka, Miss Emma Thompson and Mrs. Fred Hoch, has prepared the following, giving it as an authentic list of revolutionary war soldiers buried in Marion county, with verified war records and some interesting incidents concerning these men.

There ar seven whose military records have been verified. Ebenezer Ballentine, Joseph Gillet or Gillette, Frazer Gray, Andrew Hyde, Jr., James Swinnerton, Joshua Van Fleet and Nathaniel Wyatt.

Ebenezer Ballentine.

Ebenezer Ballentine, born 1756, died 1823, buried in Marion cemetery. Record of service.—Colonel Thomas Nixon's sixth regiment pay abstract for October and December, 1780, dated Boston, June 22, 1781. Also Lieutenant-Colonel Calvin Smith's sixth regiment. Return of men in service for January and December, 1781. Also return of men in service for January and December, 1782. From Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolution. Volume I, page 545. Served as surgeon's mate. One of his descendants has a surveyor's compass which he used in the service. He arrived in the vicinity of Marion in the fall of 1820.

Joseph Gillet.

Joseph Gillet or Gillette, born in Hardford, Connecticut, 1754, died in Marion county Ohio, 1836. Buried in the Wyatt graveyard near Waldo. Record of service.—Private in Captain Hays' company. Arrived in New York August 22, discharged September 25, 1776. Joseph Gillet, penioner, residing in New London county, Connecticut in1832. Joseph Gillet, pensioner, in East Lynn, Connecticut, in 1840, age eighty-five years. From Connecticut in the Revolution, pages 472, 655, 661.

Frazer Gray.

Frazer Gray, born 1761 in New Jersey, but subsequently removed to Sussex county, Delaware. Died in Marion county, Ohio, 1849, aged eighty-eight years. Buried in Union cemetery, one and one-half miles east of Scott Town or Meeker, as it is now called. Record of service.—Private in Captain George Smith's company, Second regiment Delaware militia. Enlisted at the age of eighteen as a substitute for his brother-in-law, for a term of six months. At the expiration of that term he enlisted for the duration of the war in the Delaware Continentals, known as "The Blue Hen's Chickens." He was with his regiment on the Hudson at the time Major Andre was captured, and was one of the soldiers who guarded him while in confinement, and stood near the gallows when he was executed. He also knew and had conversed with General Washington. The following incident in this connection was related by him. "A few of 'The Blue Hen's Chickens,' myself among the number, had leave to go out of the lines chestnuting on Sunday. While so engaged, Washington and his orderly rode near us and the general called me to him. 'What are you doing here,' he said. 'Gathering some nuts, sir, by permission,' I replied. The general answered: 'It is right, then; but remember, green chestnuts are very unwholesome; be careful not to eat too many of them, for we can not spare any Delaware men,' and with a regular military salute, he rode away." Frazer Gray came to Scott Town in 1839 and lived there until his death. Cora Gray Titus, Grace Gray Hoch and Dell Gray Hunt, of the Captain William Hendricks chapter, are decendents of Frazer Gray.

Andrew Hyde, Jr.

Andrew Hyde, Jr., born 1757, died 1845. Buried in Claridon graveyard Military record—Private in Captain Charles Dibble's company, Colonel Rossiter's third Berkshire county regiment. Enlisted October 14, 1780, discharged October 17, 1780. Service three days. Mileage out and home allowed, eighty miles. Company marched on the alarm of October 14, 1780. From Massachusetts Soldiers in the Revolution, volume 3, page 595.

James Swinnerton.

James Swinnerton, born in Salem Massachusetts, August 17, 1757, died December 6, 1824, at his home in Grand Prairie township. Buried in Grand Prairie graveyard. Military record—James Swinnerton, of Danvers, private in Captain John Putnam's alarm company which marched on the alarm of April 19, 1775, and served two days. The towns of Danvers and Salem join. James Swinnerton of Oakham private in Captain John Grainger's company Colonel Ebenezer Learned's regiment with the eight months' army station at ground Boston in 1775. [illegible] Secretary's office [illegible] Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War records [illegible] Washington, D. C. [illegible] following: Entered May 1775, eight months in Captain John Grainger's company, Colonel Learned's regiment. Enlisted December 1775, to October 1776 in Captain Asa Danforth's company, Colonel Learned's regiment Massachusetts. Served one year in Nathaniel Greene's company, Colonel Tudor's regiment, New York and one year in Richard Sackett's company, Colonel Graham's regiment, New York. He was in the battle of Bell's Neck October 18, 1776, and was wounded in the shoulder by a musket ball. He came to Delaware, Ohio, in 1808 and to Marion county about 1819. He was one among the first settlers in Grand Prairie township and had many friends among the Indians. Mrs. Katherine Titus Baumert of the local Daughters of the American Revolution chapter is a descendant of James Swinnerton.

Joshua Van Fleet.

Joshua Van Fleet born July 22, 1764, died January 8, 1849. Buried in Pleasant Hill cemetery. Military record—Private in "The Levies," Colonel Weissenfel's regiment, New York, in The Revolution, page 73. "The Levies" were raised by draft from the militia of such counties as the governor with the advice of the colonel decided. Joshua Van Fleet entered the army from New York at the age of fourteen. Served the last three years. He was subsequently a member of the New York legislature and was a member of the committee that drafted and reported the bill which became a law, abolishing slavery in the state of New York. He came to Marion county in 1832 and settled in Big Island township where he lived until his death.

Nathaniel Wyatt, Sr.

Nathaniel Wyatt, Sr., born in Albany, New York, 1761, died at Waldo, Marion county, Ohio, 1824. Buried in Wyatt graveyard. Military record, county, New York militia. Enlisted at fifteen and served five years. He removed to Virginia and subsequently to Pickaway county, Ohio, where he had military land. He exchanged this tract for land in Waldo township. On this land he built the old Wyatt brick tavern, which was twenty by thirty-six feet, two stories high and was run till about 1830. It was on this place that Ft. Morrow was built, during the war of 1812. This structure and Wyatt's hotel stood in same enclosure of pickets made from split slabs, containing from one-half to three-quarters of an acre. When there was an Indian alarm, the settlers would lodge in this fort. It contained two block houses, one made of round and the other of hewn logs. These block houses were built with a full upper story projecting out all around, about four feet over a basement of six feet high. It had port-holes and one cannon was kept at the fort. Anna Wyatt Smith, a member of the Captain William Hendricks Chapter Daughters American Revolution is a descendant of Nathaniel Wyatt.

OHIO FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick, Director of Press

District Convention.

Mrs. William H. Sharp, Columbus, president of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs announces the following dates and places for [illegible] conventions:

March 11-12, Northeast district, Kent.

March 18-19, Middle North district, Mansfield.

April 7-8, Southeast, Logan.

April 12-13, Middle East, New Philadelphia.

May 10-12, Middle West, Xenia.

The correspondents of these various districts are Mrs. H. Z. Hansen, Akron; Mrs. Charles L. Halter, Fremont; Mrs. F. A. Sosman, Chillicothe; Mrs. G. W. Hixon, Cambridge, and Mrs. Allen Marshall, Piqua.

Dates and places for holding the conventions of the Central Northwest and Southwest districts have not been announced.

Club Magazine in Toledo.

Toledo club women are to have a club's magazine of their own. There are perhaps few cities in the country where club women are more progressive than they are in Toledo.

Middletown Federation.

Although only a little more than a year old, Middletown is already beginning to make its sister federations "sit up and take notice." Last month the Middletown club women celebrated their first birthday as a federation with a party attended by 250. Mrs. Charles Kumler, Dayton, gave an interesting address. The federation raised $1,125 for the Near East Relief fund. Two weeks ago a call came to the federation from the tuberculosis hospital for knitted hospital caps and within ten days seventy-five caps were finished and sent.

One of the finest pieces of work the Middletown club women have been doing is for the children. They believe they have come close to solving the movie problem for the little folk. Every Saturday morning at 10 o'clock they have pictures for the kiddies. The attendance varies from 750 to 1,200.

Mrs. William H. Sharp, Ohio federation president, addressed the Woman's Literary club at Urbana February 19.

Of Interest to Club Women.

Here are just a few of the splendid things being done by club women in other states.

"Let's weave the red, white and blue threads of our patriotism into the design of our work." That is the slogan of the American Citizenship and Americanization committee of Nebraska.

Mrs. Lafon Bikel, president of the Kentucky federation, has been placed on the state board of charities and corrections by Governor Edwin P. Morrow.

New Hampshire club women are planning to place a trained social worker in the field with non-English speaking mothers. These Yankee club women are now working for a nutrition fund whereby folk in kindergarten classes of the public schools that are undernourished can be supplied milk.

Club women in Columbus, Georgia, are taking an active part in securing funds for a public library. Recently a book drive was conducted, many valuable books being donated.

Canadian club women have asked universities in Canada to establish employment departments as a point of contact between employer and employee for the benefit of professional women who have to seek their own positions.

Saved My Life With Eatonic

Says New Jersey Woman

"I was nearly dead until I found Eatonic and I can truly say it saved my life. It is the best stomach medicine ever made," writes Mrs. Ella Smith.

Acid stomach causes awful misery which Eatonic quickly gets rid of by taking up and carrying out the acidity and gases which prevent good digestion. A tablet taken after meals brings quick relief. Keeps the stomach healthy and helps to prevent the many ills so liable to arise from excess acid. Don't suffer from stomach miseries when you can get a big box of Eatonic for a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

Introducing the New Dealers and Home of

MAXWELL AND CHALMERS CARS

The Maxwell and Chalmers Garage, on north State street, has undergone very radical changes and improvements. That we may give the very best service to patrons is our first endeavor. A new display and salesroom has been provided, the repair department has been changed to make more room for new cars; a modern office and waiting room will soon be completed.

T. J. Horton, so well known to local automobile dealers, will have active and directing management, while Mr. Noah Cull has purchased the interest of W. M. Rhoads. The new firm will be known as Horton & Cull. Every feature of general garage, storage and repair work will be given best attention.

We solicit the opportunity of showing you the new Maxwell and Chalmers cars, for they represent unusual values.

A Real Pleasure Car

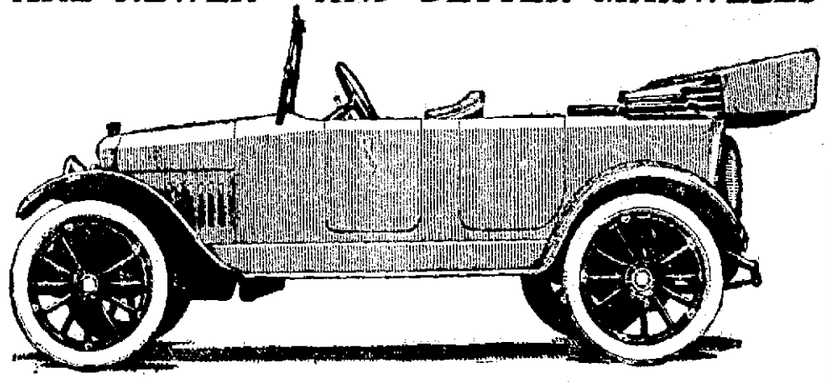
THE MAXWELL!

IS COMFORTABLE— both for the long and short drive.

IT IS CONVENIENT— from every standpoint.

IT IS ECONOMICAL— in first cost, in fuel consumption and in year 'round operation.

IT IS ATTRACTIVE— and modern, inside and out.



Maxwell Dependability is Backed by more than 300,000 owners. For Business or pleasure they meet every requirement, and their light weight, attractive appearance and low operaing cost make them the ideal car. Not all want the heavy, highest priced cars—but the Maxwell supplies power, comfort, easy riding, endurance of expensive cars at much less cost and upkeep. To study the specification is to recognize the best of standard materials, with many features usually only found on the highest priced cars.

Maxwell Touring or Roadster Models $1060
5-Pass. Sedan $1795 Maxwell Coupe $1685

MAXWELL 1½ Ton Truck

Maxwell stability, fleetness and economy give the Maxwell truck a breadth of usefulness that is remarkable. It is designed and built in a modern factory where every phase of truck service is understood and catered to.

The Maxwell truck does not plod. It carries its load with a facility that puts snap and ginger into delivery work, enlarging the day's operations and minimizing the running time.

Its lightness guarantees low operating cost, and its sturdiness insures against those vexatious and costly periods of inactivity resulting from petty or even serious breakage.

said quietly. "I know his type. He likes to make great mountains of mystery out of very small molehills. I'll find out what he means, but depend on it the answer will be zero."

"Very well, oh, Sherlockia!" I returned, too accustomed to Lillian's thought-reading to be surprised at this latest exhibition of it. That her advice was sound, I knew, resolved to profit by it, and so came back to Mrs. Durkee's prepared to put aside all thought of my own affairs until we had made certain that the little woman's preparations for the reception of Alfred and his bride were completed to the last detail.

Lillian adroitly insured keeping old Sammy from Mrs. Durkee's inquisitive questioning by offering to wash the dishes after dinner, thus giving our little hostess a chance to go directly to the upstairs rooms she was arranging.

"I shall have to stay downstairs anyway," she told Mrs. Durkee at the dinner table, "for I can only get Miss Norman by leaving a message at her hotel to have her call me when she comes in—she is the most uncertain creature—so let Edith and me wash the dishes while you and Madge get those things transferred from Lelia's room to yours. Now if you'll let me have those measurements—"

"I have something better than that, the bill of the shop where I got those draperies," Mrs. Durkee said. "Fortunately I purchased everything at one place except the shade for those electric candles in the sconces. But I have noted the number and measurements of those on this bill."

"Good girl," Lillian commented appreciatively, as she held out her hand for the bill."

But I noted that she scanned it carefully before putting it in her purse, and I knew that with her usual care, she was mentally going over Lelia's room as she had seen it a few moments before, checking the items before her to see that nothing was omitted.

"Wasn't there a table scarf on that narrow table?" she asked.

"Goodness gracious, I forgot that!" Mrs. Durkee exclaimed. "And come to think of it, there's a dressing table scarf that isn't on there either."

"Do you mind going up there with he for a minute or two and checking over things?" Lillian asked. "It will be too late to get anything after I once give this order over the telephone, I am afraid."

Little Mrs. Durkee laughed gleefully.

"Wouldn't I hate to work for you, though?" she commented. "But I'm mighty glad you're so finicky about this. I think I'd just curl up and die, if anything should be missing from that room."

Even Edith, who, while courteous, had been rather austere in her manner since her first view of Lelia's room, smiled at this sally. I think for the first time she was genuinely convinced of the little woman's change of heart upon the subject of her new daughter-in-law's comfort.

"Nothing will be missing. I'll promise you that," Lillian said confidently. "Madge, will you come up with us? You don't know where things go in Mrs. Durkee's pantry, and you'll only be in Edith's way. Besides, I need you up here. By the way, Edith," she added, laughing, "I expect a gentleman friend this evening, a Mr. Samuel Hinman. He will probably appear at the kitchen door, but I warn you now that he's a 'follower' of mine, so don't go poaching. Just ask him in prettily, and call me."

"Mr. Samuel Hinman," Mrs. Durkee repeated doubtfully, then, with a gurgle of laughter. "Oh, old Sammy! Look out, Edith, that he doesn't shoot you with that old blunderbuss he carries. But he'll talk you to death, anyway, so I suppose it doesn't matter."

"I shall stop his mouth with coffee and your best layer cake," Edith threatened, and her voice held a note of gayety, and camaraderie which told me that the danger of friction between Lelia's sister and her mother-in-law had passed for the time being, at least.

I carried another bit of knowledge with me as I followed Lillian and Mrs. Durkee upstairs, and that was the illuminating fact that Lillian had chosen for the task of remaining downstairs and admitting of Sammy the only woman in the house whom he did not know, and to whom he would not be apt to talk.

The Young Mother

Youth with its vitality makes for the young mother's health and happiness. But later maternal experiences bring a different result. The care of a family, multiplied household duties, and very often the weakness caused by womanly disease, tend to prolong the suffering; and to make convalescence a slow and weary process. Many women — perhaps your own neighbors — have had beneficial experience with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which prepares the prospective mother. It promotes the appetite, ends nervousness and sleeplessness, and gives a consciousness of buoyant health. It is unexcelled as a strength-giving tonic for mothers during the period of convalescence. This Favorite Prescription was used by Dr. Pierce with great success over 50 years ago. It's still good today. Ask your neighbor!

DARWIN, Ohio.—"During expectancy I had a severe nervous breakdown. My back ached and I suffered from nausea and bowel trouble. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it completely restored me to health. I had comparatively no suffering and my baby was very strong and healthy. I can recommend 'Favorite Prescription' as being the best medicine the expectant mother can take to keep her strong and healthy at this time. I always advise its use."—MRS. ANNA WEIMAN-METT, Route 8.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally that Nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Advt.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Adv.

HEAVENS IN MARCH

To Northern observers the most widely known constellation is Ursa Major commonly known in America as the "big dipper." Scarcely less well known is the constellation Orion. The Pleiades are perhaps as well known as either, but this group is not a constellation, but only a part of the constellation Taurus. As Ursa Major and Orion are now about equally well located we may profitably make a few comparisons of the constellations. Each constellation contains seven conspicuous stars. In Ursa Major those which form the dipper and in Orion the three in a nearly straight line in the middle of the constellation and the four which make a rectangle about them. See Figure 1. Each constellation contains many other stars. First we may compare the brightness of the stars. Beginning with the end of the handle of the dipper the magnitudes of the seven stars in Ursa Major are 1.9, 2.4, 1.7, 3.4, 2.5, 2.4, 2.6. The magnitude measures the brightness of the star, the small magnitudes representing the brighter stars. In Orion, Betelgeux, the star at the northeast corner, is a variable star whose magnitude changes between 1.0 and 1.4. The star at the northwest corner is of 1.7 magnitude. The stars at the southeastern and southwestern corners are respectively of 2.2 and 0.3 magnitudes. The three stars in the middle of the constellation commonly known as the belt of Orion are from east to west of 2.0, 1.8 and 2.5 magnitudes respectively. It may thus be noted that the average magnitude of the seven bright stars in Ursa Major is 2.3, while the average magnitude of the seven in Orion is 1.7. Orion has two stars brighter than any in Ursa Major and a third equal in brightness to the brightest of Ursa Major. It is thus seen that Orion exceeds Ursa Major in brightness as it does all other constellations.

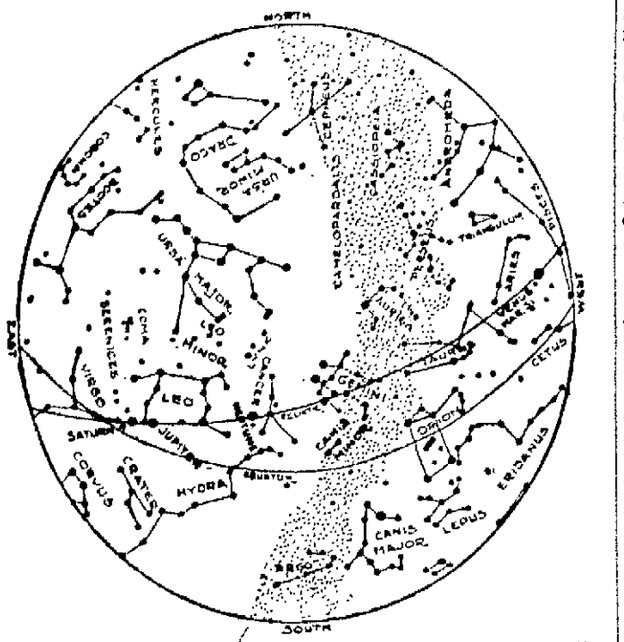

Figure 1—The Constellations March 1, 9 p. m. Turn the map so that the direction faced is at the bottom; that is if facing east hold east at the bottom, as south now is.

Next we may consider the positions of the constellation. Ursa Major is a North Polar constellation. Two of its stars, "the pointers," are usually used to locate the north star and the pole. As a polar constellation it is above the horizon at all times for most northern observers. For observers north of forty degrees north latitude none of the seven stars ever set. We must go as far south as twenty-eight degrees north, latitude before the whole seven will be found to set. This fact that the stars are nearly always visible in our latitudes helps greatly in making the constellations familiar to us. But observers south of twenty-eight degrees south latitude never see some of the stars in the dipper. What is our gain is their loss.

Orion on the other hand is an equatorial constellation. The equator passes through the middle of it. For this reason it can be seen only half of the time at any place on the earth, but there is no place except in the uninhabited regions near the poles where the whole constellation can not be seen. Orion is at its best at the equator, where it can be seen overhead. Ursa major is nearly overhead in the latitudes of the United States. It is this position in the early evening in the warm months of the year. Orion is visible here in the early evenings during the winter months. Ursa major is easily described by comparison with a dipper. Orion is not easily described, but it is hard to see how one who has once known it can easily forget it. Observers too far south to see the Ursa major fill its place with a constellation Crux, the Southern cross, very familiar to them, but not to us, for we never see it.

The Planets.

The position of Venus can not be shown on Figure 1, for the beginning of the month, but its position at the end of the month is shown. The planet is brightest on March 16. Throughout the month it will be a splendid object in the early evening in the southwestern sky. It is so bright that it may be seen even at high noon, if one knows just where to look. It is hard to locate on the bright background of the sky, but not hard to see when located. Since the planets and their satellites receive the light which they give to us from the sun, they have phases. It is only for this, however, for the part of the year the closer to the sun than the earth, Mercury and Venus [illegible] present phase. Mercury and Venus have no [illegible]. Venus is now of a crescent shape like the new moon. Although Venus shows all of the phases like the moon, there are some very great differences, as might be expected, as the motion of Venus is about the sun and that of the moon is about the earth. Some of these differences are these: The brightness of a body depends both upon its distance from the sun and the earth. Neither of these distances change greatly in the case of the moon. The distance of Venus from the sun does not change greatly, but its greatest distance from the earth is six times its least. For this reason the apparent size is only a sixth as great. The fact are illustrated in Figure 2.

In Position 1, when Venus is farthest from the earth, the face illuminated by the sun is turned toward the earth and Venus is "full," as shown in the open circle. But being in nearly the same direction as the sun, we can not see it, and, if we could, it would not be very bright, as it is far from us. At 2, being nearer, it looks larger, but we can not see the whole disc, as the whole illuminated face is not turned toward the earth. Venus is then gibbous—that is, more than half of the disc is visible. At 3, at elongation, Venus appears still larger, but only half of the illuminated side can be seen from the earth and Venus looks like the quarter moon. At 4 the illuminated face of Venus is turned away from the earth and Venus is new.

Near this position we see a very narrow crescent as shown, but Venus is then very close to us, so that this crescent is part of a very large disc and hence may be brighter than the full circle at one. It happens that Venus is brightest between positions one and four, when its shape is that of the moon five days old. The proportion between the size of the crescent and the full circle at one as drawn is accurate. When the moon appears in the west, it is a waxing moon, but Venus in the same position is waning as to shape, but not necessarily in brightness. Conversely in the east in the morning.

Mercury may be seen in the east before sunrise the last few days of the month. By passing opposition March 4, Jupiter becomes an evening star, and will soon supplant Venus as the conspicuous evening star. Saturn similarly becomes an evening star March 12. The earth is now is now on the same side of the rings as the sun, and may be seen as a narrow needle of light extending outward from the disc. The sun crosses the equator March 20, 10:51 p. m. This marks the beginning of spring.

It is announced that Slipher of Lowell observatory has found that a spiral nebula in Cetus is moving away from us with the enormous velocity of 1240 miles per second. It has been known for some time that spiral nebula move with great velocities—for else we do—as great as 500 to 700 miles per second. This is the greatest velocity found anywhere. Why these enormous velocities exist in the class of bodies is still unexplained.

Betelgeux.

Last month we mentioned the fact that the diameter [illegible] of the stars Betelgeux or Alpha Orionis had been determined. It may be further explained that the diameter of the sun, planet, etc., is determined by measuring the angle which its disc subtends. When this angle can be measured and the distance is known it is easy to calculate the diameter in miles. The stars, however, are so far from us that the discs are too small to measure. When seen through a telescope stars show a spurious disc due to the diffraction of light the size of which decreases with larger telescopes. Unless the real disc was larger than this its size could not be determined by ordinary means. Hence heretofore we have been unable to actually determine the diameter of any star. It has been possible to calculate the diameter in some cases such as in eclipsing binaries. Recently the diameters of some of the stars have been predicted upon the basis of their spectrum and other characteristics. Both Eddington and Russell predicted the diameter of Betelgeux before the actual measurement with considerable accuray. Both believed it to be a very large star, and this led to its selection as a trial star. Other stars suggested as large by Russell are Antares, Aldebaran and Arcturus. All are reddish stars. That Betelgeux is large is a confirmation of the theory of evolution of stars, which claims stars are red both near the beginning and end of their existence. For the development of this theory Russell has just been awarded the gold medal of the Royal Astronomical society. Lack of space prevents a further discussion of this theory now.

GAINS WEIGHT AND STRENGTH IN FEW WEEKS

Former Chef at Bookwalter Cafeteria, Springfield, Highly Enthusiastic.

Mr. William J. Tenney, who lives at 1567 East Main Street, Springfield, formerly chef at the Bookwalter cafeteria, says: "I was run down, extremely nervous, and a shadow of my former self. I had no appetite at all, although I could, if I desired, have had the best kind of food that the market afforded. As a matter of fact the sight and smell of food seemed to pall on my nerves and nauseated me. My work kept me on the go most of the night and when it was time to rest I seldom got any sleep. I lost weight and strength and altogether felt anything but well—literally weary and worn-out. I started taking Redex about three weeks ago and it has helped me wonderfully; it has given me new life and strength. I am no longer nervous and enjoy taking the walk to and from business. I am increasing in weight and my appetite is fine and my digestion is perfect. My wife, who has been ill for some time and had to undergo a surgical operation, also took Redex to strengthen her to withstand the shock. She has been operated on and is now getting along very favorably.

Redex is a splendid medicine to any one in a run-down and weakened condition and I cheerfully recommend it."

Redex can be obtained in Marion at Lower's, Schmidt's and all first-class drug stores.—Adv.
